

A note from the Editors

Doing this magazine was both a challenge and an exciting opportunity for the editorial committee to somehow find a way to commemorate and chronicle the twenty-five years of Seletar hashing. What we have done is to scrounge previous publications as well as solicit contributions from the existing members. A big thank you to all who have helped. On behalf of the magazine committee (comprising Never Come, Opto and Up Yours), I would like to thank Opto, Nuts, Fatimah, Micro Dick, Baby Face, and Rainbow for their talent in word smithing. Thanks also goes to Small Size, Virginia Slim, Lobang and Kotteh who provided photographs and to DOM and Billy Goat for helping to nail down a printing company.

And as a final note, for the hash geeks, this publication was created using a desktop publishing tool Scribus, GIMP for the image manipulation and OpenOffice.org for text. In addition the photographs and other images were scanned in using a HP Photosmart 2710 all-in-one printer. Naturally, the computer that this was done on was running Linux (more specifically, Red Hat Enterprise Linux). The pages were rendered into PDFs and sent to the printers for them to work on the final bits. All free and all open sourced software! Rumours have it that this magazine will be electronically available on the Seletar website at <http://seletar.hash.org.sg/magazine/> until the Golden Anniversary!

On On. Never Come
