GRANDMASTER'S SAY

When we first held our Committee Meeting in March on the much awaited 888th Run, the first question that came to mind was, "How to attract Malaysian Hashers to a Singapore Run." Our girls are not prettier than theirs and not as sexy as "Mor Lea Foo" (touch your trouser) and our guys cannot shout CCB as loud as Seng Bok nor as good looking as KORKY or as butter-smooth as Walter. Our Ah Kwas (transvestites) cannot excite the daylight out of the CAMEL or the BEAR. Our strong S$ and our exorbitant hotel rates don't help either. The only reason the Malaysian hashers can be attracted here is because Singapore has the Seletar Guzzlers - one of the friendliest, craziest, ice-cold-bum loving, icewater-splashing bunch of wankers in this region. Anyway, invitations went out and here you are. Seletar had always taken pride in organising our celebration run. We hope you will enjoy this run as much as the previous ones. Singapore hashers have always given us great support too. A big THANKS to them.

Since the early 1980s, costs for running in an outstation hash in Malaysia/Singapore have increased - along with inflation. Used to be S$10 and now about S$20-$30, still affordable to most. The major interhashes (e.g. Interhash, Nash Hash, and Pan Asia,), on the other hand are a different story. What used to be about US$40 for a three day event way back in 1982 can now set you back by as much as US$200. I guess inflation, increased sophistication in the presentation, expensive stage props, professional shows and peripherals take up the chunk of the cost. However, one wonders if grand hotel receptions, watching professional stage decor and shows, eating out of silver cutlery are some of the things that hashers go for in an interhash meet. For most, attending interhash meets provides a good opportunity to be a part of the magical moment ("I was there!"), to absorb the warm ambience of a giant gathering of people, strike up new friendships and renew old ones. If time permits, some tours and sight-seeing. For survival, a "decent" meal of carbo, vegetables and meat will suffice and of course a couple of beers to wash the food down - simple needs. By trimming off the non-essentials, an interhash event can be organised for much less than what is being charged nowadays. Seems like each interhash event costs more than the former one. A fee of US$80 for a 3 day event should be reasonable and affordable, which in turn encourages greater participation.

Bring back the basics to hashing - open field, good food, hash shows, lots of booze and great company. Most hashers can do without the frills at a lower cost. Rumour has it that Singapore is trying to put together a Nash Hash Meet in Singapore in 1997. We hope to have your support if it becomes a reality. Thank you for being a part of our 888th. Do take advantage of our hospitality and enjoy the two days event in Singapore to its fullest. For the Malaysians, do try to stay for the Sunday do (same runsite). We will clear the Causeway for your speedy return on Sunday afternoon.

EDITOR'S SAY

It has been the writer's editorial policy, always backed-up by the editorial subcommittee and ultimately by the main management committee that, in return for the generous financial support generated by advertisements solicited and acknowledged here-in, we shall produce and present to you a handsome souvenir for our raison d'être: namely, Seletar's 888th Run Celebration.

More than being a bonus souvenir (amongst other items that you will also find in your "goodies bag"), we know that this "mag" which you now hold (whatever else you may hold with your other hand), is already a collector's item, even before the event is over.

Seletar Hash already has a fine weekly newsletter, "The Seletar Guzzler", that is avidly read by our members et al. Unfortunately, our weekly news (also featured on the Internet Seletar Home page) tends to be thrown away. But it is the duty of history to record and preserve, as has been done with our past celebration run magazines, and now! Our productions, if we can say so with modesty, also find their way into the national archives.

Recorded in this 888th run mag are our club's major events and milestones, since our last 777th run publication. Happenings and photos and reports that are only peculiar and unique to Seletar are reproduced. There are also reports on outstation runs for our visiting outstation chapters to take home too. As well, a hash genealogy and, of course, Interhash '98 (or the state of the art by year 1998).

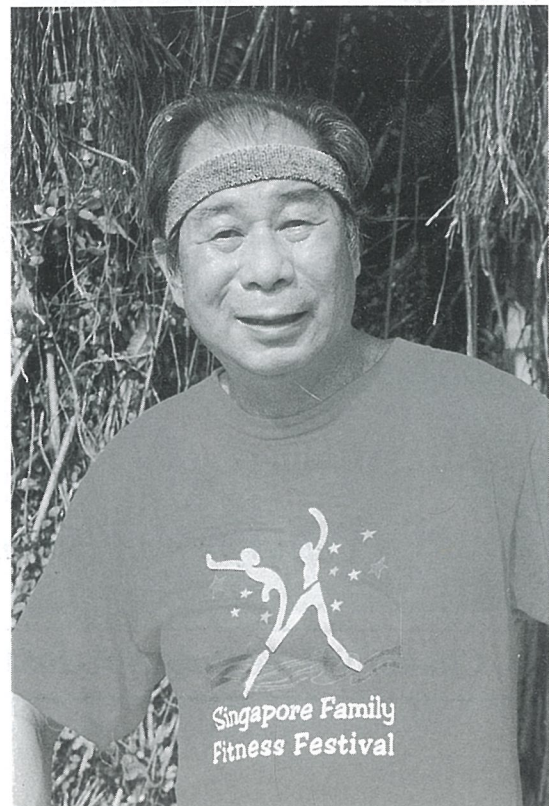

This, now, is our 888th celebration, that you have come to share with us. Account number 88888 (a 5-digit Cantonese "no luck") spelt disaster for a certain rogue trader. But 888 (a 3-digit Cantonese "lively luck") will be your triple joy.

With a choice of 3 runs (long, medium, or short), 3 menus (Indian, Chinamen, and/or Kwailoh cuisine), and a 3 nationality cultural show, the evening as well as tomorrow is yours.

Till we meet again, when we will present to you Seletar's 1000th celebration run mag (not our 999th, I predict), to mark Interhash '98 coinciding within a week in the land where hashing and hashers started us all . . . . . On-On!

"He's a piss-pot, so they say.
He tried to go to heaven
but he went the other way."

SINGAPORE HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

Seletar Hash House Harriers

I would like to congratulate The Seletar Hash House Harriers on behalf of the Singapore Hash House Harriers on their 888 run which falls on 26th and 27th October 1996.

How time flies. It appears as though it was few days ago that I wrote a forward for your 777th Run.

I also mentioned in that forward that Seletar and The Singapore Hash should have a joint run. We nearly did twice, but owing to reasons difficult to explain we did not.

As this is a good opportunity, may I suggest that why not all the 4 Hashes in Singapore get together and have a good bang.

I have to give my apologies as I will be unable to join in your Celebration as I am on medical leave. I am certain you chaps are looking forward to see me sit on that block of ice to cool my old family jewels. I will be there one of these days.

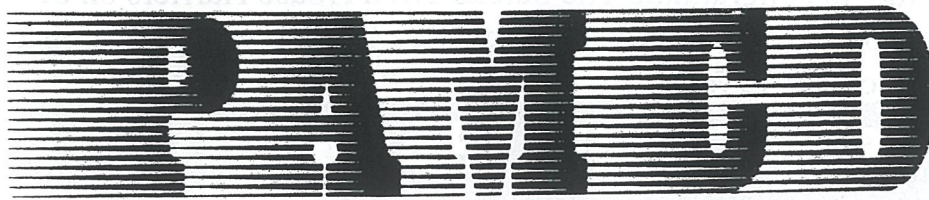

Well, Seletar, all the best for your 888th run. Keep it up.

Regards,

SINGAPORE HASH HOUSE HARRIETS

To: Seletar Hash House Harriers

The committee and members of the Singapore Hash House Harriets send their congratulations to the Seletar Hash on the occasion of their 888 run.

Over the years, close ties have been made between our clubs, and it is always a pleasure to see so many Seletar members supporting us on Wednesday nights.

I am certain that many Harriets will be joining you on this auspicious occasion.

The Committee and members of Lion City Hash House Harriers send their greetings!

We at Lion City Hash are extremely happy to have the opportunity to congratulate Seletar Hash House Harriers on the occasion of your "Fatt Fatt Fatt" Run, and to help you carry on the fine hashing tradition that is Singapore's. As our hare line is currently in the 700's, we anticipate our own passage into the 800's and look forward to taking our turn to invite you to help us celebrate this same auspicious event.

Well done, Seletar! We wish you many more Fatts to come!

SINGAPORE SUNDAY HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

GRANDMASTER SELETAR HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

Congrats on your 888 run from the Singapore Sunday Hash House Harriers, for short S2H3. I had the pleasure in meeting the Seletar Boys last Quad run at Palm resort, Johor. My first encounter with the Big Boys I have heard a lot about. Or should I say, my second, I was at your 777 run but I was tooooooo shy lah, to talk to all.

Wondering who we are, or just pretending not to know us! Well let me introduce myself. I am Party Animal, the GM for this Hash House. We have a good 60 over members in our list and about half to 40 turns up to our fortnightly runs. Small group with a personal touch.

I understand our group started some 2 years ago with different perception from different people. Whatever rumors and names we have been called, what matters most now is that WE ARE THE S2H3. We run, jog and walk. We drink, sing and eat. As the rest of the Houses.

We completed our 50th run last February and as young as we might sound we believe we are GOOD but....YOU ARE OLD!!! Well! OLD IS GOLD!!!!

Congratulation once again and S2H3 wishes you a great success on your 888 celebrations and we hope to be there to rub shoulders with the BIG BOYS!!!

SINGAPORE HASH HOUSE HORRORS

Dear Seletar uncles,

Thank you for making our Sundays so much fun.

We hear that grown-up Horrors like yourselves have great fun too, on Tuesday evenings. Our moms say that we are quite alike, only you are taller and bigger, and some of you can run faster and longer. BUT you are just like us! We also hear that you like to sit on ice (yes, Singapore is a hot country) and that some of you have funny names like Mad Dog and Snake Eater.

We miss Uncle Mike. We hear that he is hashing in the Great Hash upstairs. We want to say "THANK YOU" to Auntie Julie, Sandra and Mark for helping in organising the many, many runs all these years.

Today you're celebrating your 888th run. From all of us at the Horrors -

HAPPY 888TH BIRTHDAY !

ON ! ON !! ON !!!

P. S. Can we meet Mad Dog and Snake Eater?

THE GENEALOGY OF THE HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

The current state of development of the Family Tree of the Hash House Harriers is shown on the following pages, and covers some 200 Hash Clubs, worldwide, out of around 1250 or so active known clubs, and many more extinct or dormant. We are endeavouring to have the Family Tree virtually complete for Interhash '98 in Kuala Lumpur, showing the whole Hash movement's links back to the Mother Hash, and there is still a long way to go. The Singapore hashes are all derived from Singapore H<sup>3</sup>, which was the first legitimate daughter of the Mother Hash, founded by Ian Cumming of KLH<sup>3</sup> in 1962. However, Singapore H<sup>3</sup> was not the 'first born' as, unbeknownst to anyone else, an 'illegitimate' predecessor, the Royal Bordighera H<sup>3</sup>, had been started on the Italian Riviera in 1947, by Gus McKay who had run as a guest with KLH<sup>3</sup> before the war, but the club did not survive.

But what a virile parent Singapore H<sup>3</sup> has turned out to be, with almost half the Hash clubs on the known family tree descended from it, and probably many more to come. In 1966, when Mother Hash had her 1000th Run, there were only ten known clubs in existence, gathered in K. L. from Singapore, Kuching, Jesselton, Brunei, Miri, Sibul, Sandakan, Ipoh and Penang, all from Malaysia, Singapore and Brunei. Now, Singapore H<sup>3</sup>'s 'children' run all over Malaysia and Brunei, and in Cyprus, New Zealand, U. K., U. S. A., Tanzania, Nigeria, Indonesia, Norway, India and who knows how many other places besides !

Even in 1973, for the 1500th Run of Mother Hash, the worldwide list had only grown to 36 clubs in 12 countries, with the addition of Seremban, Johore Bahru, Kluang, Muar, Batu Gajah and Tawau in Malaysia; Sydney, Perth, Melbourne, Canberra, Brisbane, Hobart and Wollomoolloo in Australia; Panguna and Port Moresby in P. N. G.; Plymouth and Liss in U. K.; Episkopi and Dhekelia in Cyprus; plus Jakarta, Bahrain, Washington DC, Hong Kong, Taipei, Seoul and Durban. Some 300 runners assembled in K. L. for what was, in effect, the second unofficial Interhash. They had a marvelous run in the hills behind the Zoo and, by the sound of it, a fantastic party afterwards.

But the 'explosion' of hashing had started, and by the 21 June 1980, only seven years later, when Seletar Hash House Harriers was founded (by James Sandosham and 17 'others'), there were about 200 Hash clubs worldwide in 33 countries. The range now included the Solomons, Fiji, New Zealand, the Philippines, Croatia, Vanuatu, Oman, Japan, Pakistan, Finland, Thailand, Bangladesh, Costa Rica, the Cayman Islands, Denmark, Gambia, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Jordan, Kenya, Nepal, Saudi Arabia, Sierra Leone, Sri Lanka, Tunisia and the U. A. E. ! The deadly virus of Hashing had spread worldwide and was continuing to expand.

Today we have about 1700 Hash clubs (including the dormant ones, the bike hashes, the junior 'horrors', the 'muff divers' etc. etc.), in some 160 countries worldwide. The concept of a little healthy exercise, followed by a few drinks, a meal and a few irreverent songs, seems to meet a lot of people's needs for relaxation. So, if you have vital information on your Hash club, which is not on the family tree and is thus currently 'illegitimate', please jot down the founder's name, the date of the first run and the hash club from which the founder came on a piece of paper and fax it to Bill Panton in K. L. (on 253.7992) or Mike Lyons (on 255.8988).

THE HOMECOMING DIAMOND CELEBRATION October 2nd - 4th 1998

A big terima kasih, which means thank you in Malay for voting us host of Interhash '98. We look forward to welcoming you to a CELEBRATION OF HASH in its 60th glorious year.

Rumble in the jungle or just take a stroll down memory trails of our hashing forefathers. Whatever your preference, there will be something for every one. The Nine Hashes in the Klang Valley, where Kuala Lumpur and Petaling Jaya are located, await to welcome you to Malaysia and your hashing roots.

In fact, we are so keen and serious about making Interhash '98 a great success that our Government has kindly agreed to upgrade Malaysia's infra-structure and even build a new mega airport to welcome you. So when you arrive in October, you will arrive at our new ultra-modern airport and be whizzed away along our brand new super highways or glide into Kuala Lumpur in one of our new LRT (Light Railway Transport) train systems to a wide variety of hotels, apartments and entertainment complexes. They will definitely be ready and running by the time you get here. To make sure that everything will be running perfectly, all these new facilities will be thoroughly tested. That is why Malaysia is hosting the Commonwealth Games in September 1998 to test the readiness of our new facilities. And to ensure all systems are GO! For the biggest and best Interhash ever. Of course, such testing cannot be the same, as it is hard to simulate the rowdiness and drunkenness of hashers as compared to the serious and sober crowd of such Games. It's something for which no one in the world is prepared! But it should be good enough as, next to the Summer Olympics, the Commonwealth Games is the second biggest sporting event in the world.

Anyway, we are confident that we would have enough space and capacity to host a crowd of at least 6,000 hashers which we expect at a minimum.

So far we have registered 1800 hashers in Cyprus and Malaysia. So hurry up and do so before 31st December 1996. The registration fee of US$100 will still hold until then.

ON ON

HASHCLUSIVE: INTERHASH '98

An Interview with Alex BEAR Thomas
Deputy Chairman, Interhash '98 Organising Committee
Chairman, Malaysian Hash Council

Seletar's CNN brings you this hashclusive interview with the BEAR. Hear now the latest word on Interhash '98.

Q: We are delighted that the hashing world has chosen Malaysia, and Kuala Lumpur in particular, for its next international jamboree. A great deal of planning and work must have been put in by your organising committee to secure this bid. Tell us how you managed to gain the support of the world for this gargantuan event.

BEAR: First of all we must remember that 1998 is the 60th year of the founding of Hash and a lot of sentiments must have come into play. Upon realising that, the committee had aptly dubbed the event "The Homecoming Diamond Celebration".

The Interhash Committee was formed over two years ago at a Grand Masters' meeting of Malaysian Hash Chapters and as finance was a key factor to garner support worldwide, 100 bonds at RM500 was offered to hashers on the proviso that the bonds were not redeemable if our bid at Cyprus was not successful. The response was overwhelming. All bonds were sold. Fliers were sent at regular intervals with Tourist Development Board brochures on Malaysia as inserts. With support from our national carrier MAS. Hash emissaries were sent to major Hash events around the world, eg. Aussie Nash Hash, Pan Asia 95, Euro Hash, UK Nash Hash, All America Hash. Presentations and lobbying at these events definitely created an impact and made known our serious intentions to host Interhash '98.

At Cyprus the presentation was a combined effort of the Committee and the presence of representatives of our sponsors. MAS, Guinness Anchor Berhad, S. A. Tours, at hand to answer queries, definitely gave us an edge.

Commitment, hard work, and the knowledge that major sponsors were backing us must have resulted in the landslide in votes favouring Malaysia as the venue for Interhash '98.

Q: If memory serves me right, Interhash '80 was held in Kuala Lumpur, hosted by the Mother Hash (KLH3). With Interhash '98 coming back to Malaysia, we have come a full swing to the land where hashing had its birth. I gather the Mother Hash will also be celebrating 60 years of hashing?

BEAR: Yes, you are right, Interhash 1980 was hosted by Kuala Lumpur H3. It was a tame affair with about 1000 participants, in contrast to between 6000 to 8000 participants we expect in '98. Whilst Mother Hash would be celebrating its 60 years of hashing, I believe that this Diamond Jubilee of Hash is a legacy to all hashers around the world. It would be most fitting to celebrate this event at the Interhash in Kuala Lumpur.

HASHCLUSIVE: INTERHASH '98

Q: How did Interhash, as a world gathering of the finest of hash culture, first come about? When did it start, and which countries have hosted this biennial event?

BEAR: CHEE-BY is the best person to comment on this. I'll pass over to him.

Q: Have you been to all the Interhashes? Which were exceptional?

BEAR: I have not been to all the Interhashes. Of the 10 Interhashes held, I have been to six, hence I am really not able to say which were exceptional. However, I have fond memories of Sydney Interhash, where the organisation was superb. Pattaya was not too bad. There are only 5 hashers in the world who have attended all the Interhashes, and one of them would be a better person to answer this.

Q: What programmes have you lined up for Interhash '98?

BEAR: The Interhash is still two years away, and all that we have is a tentative programme. As in all previous Interhashes, it will be a three day event. The first day will be a meet and greet party night, and hash runs and shows on the second and third nights.

Pre-rambles, post-rambles and a hash cruise are all on the cards. So, for that period, there will be plenty in store for visiting hashmen.

Special air fares are being structured by MAS and S. A. Tours will be organising tours to Malaysian and South East Asian destinations.

Q: How many participants do you expect? How can we register at this stage?

BEAR: We are expecting about 6,000 to 8,000 participants. About 1,700 participants have registered in Cyprus and 100 free registrations have been given to bond holders.

Registration forms have been sent to over 1,200 Hash Chapters worldwide and registration must be on the forms provided and accompanied with the registration fee. The cut off date for US$100 registration fee is 31st December 1996. So please send in your registrations early.

Q: Interhash 98 will probably coincide (within a week we guess) with Seletar's 1000th celebration. Shall we throw in Seletar as a bonus?

BEAR: Interhash '98 will be held from the 2nd to 4th of October 1998 and if this is within a week of Seletar's 1000th run, what an opportune time it will be to celebrate this event as a pre- or post-ramble to Interhash '98. With MAS giving free of charge flights from Kuala Lumpur to Singapore to participants on long hauls, I think you will have a lot of support from overseas hashers.

ANNUAL HASH AWARDS 1995

A good Tuesday hash evening is made up of several parts: a good run, a good circle, good makan (on-site or eatout), and of course plenty of beer. The hares spend a lot of time, money, and effort to make sure that everything is perfect. Since a hashman typically hares only one run per year, he will try his best to plan the best hash evening possible.

The annual hash awards at the annual D&D in December 1995 recognized the efforts of the hares during the twelve months since the last D&D in December 1994. Awards were presented for the Best Scribe Report, Best On-Site Makan, Best Eatout, Best T-Shirt, Best Run, and Worst Run (also known as Hash Shit Of The Year). The Committee voted to select the award winners. In most of the categories, it was very difficult to pick one winner, because there were so many good hashes in 1995. Many of the award nominees are mentioned below, but in the end the Committee had to pick just one winner for each award.

The scribe report is something that many hashmen take for granted. A lot of the assigned scribes never turn in their reports, and many of the scribes who do write a report spend just a few minutes to scribble some rubbish on a piece of paper just to satisfy their duty. However, this isn't fair to the hares, who have spent a lot of time and effort preparing the run. The hares deserve to see a good writeup of their efforts appear in the newsletter. A hashman is typically assigned scribe duty less than once a year, so it shouldn't be much work to spend some time writing one good report. There were only a few good reports in 1995 where the scribes actually put some time and thought into their work. The Seletar Hash Literary Appreciation Society felt that four of these scribe reports deserved recognition. COCKSUCKER's scribe report for Run 788 was a literary fantasy that could only have been written under the influence of mind-altering chemicals. BARBIE DOLL's poetic ode to Run 792 also displayed a unique approach which stands out from the normal narratives. KICHIBHAI's scribe report for Run 822 was creative and well-written as usual; in fact, KICHIBHAI's scribe report for Run 764 was the winner in last year's voting, but he was deprived of the award by kelong. However, the winner of the 1995 award for the best scribe report won the Committee's vote by a clear majority, and it is especially good to see such a fine effort by a new boot: MOTHER-IN-LAW for Run 819.

Makan is an important part of every event in Singapore, and most Tuesdays the makan is eaten on-site. Some hares provide cheap $2 packets of nasi lemak, and some hares spend a lot of money on fancy dinners, but the award for Best On-Site Makan is not given just for the most money spent. The Committee was looking for makan that was unique or special in some way, not just the same old shit. The makan should be tasty and plentiful. There were many candidates, and it was very difficult to pick a winner, but award was given for on-site makan that was definitely unusual, nicely presented, and part of an overall run theme: the Oktoberfest Run (Run 824) by MUFFDIVER, ARMLESS, and BANANA MAN.

There was a lot of discussion about which runs qualified for the Best Eatout award. The annual "special runs" (Chinamen, Kwailoh, and Deepavali) are not considered, because the cost of these events is much higher than a normal eatout. Normal eatouts are scheduled for every fourth run. However, there were a couple of cases this year where makan was provided at a location away from the run site, even though the runs were not scheduled eatouts. The Committee decided that any makan which was not eaten on-site should fall into the eatout category. The two top contenders for the Best Eatout were both unscheduled eatouts. The World War II Run 830 by SUMA TALAY, HASH FLASHER, and S. M. Chua was a close runner-up, but the Committee decided to award the Best Eatout to POPEYE and KANSALAH for Run 818 at Jalan Sendudok.

ANNUAL HASH AWARDS

The Best T-Shirt award was very difficult to decide because we had so many good T-Shirts in 1995. The 1995 T-shirts were modeled at the D&D by some of the lovely hash wives. The hat and towel from the World War II run were possibly the most unique giveaways in 1995, but the Committee decided to keep this award for T-shirts exclusively (despite SUMA TALAY's attempts to bribe the Committee). Based on a survey of the T-shirts which are worn most often on Tuesday nights, the Austrian Run T-shirt (from LOUDER and SPERMINATOR) and the Oktoberfest T-shirt (from MUFFDIVER, ARMLESS, and BANANA MAN) were two of the most popular designs this year. However, the Committee didn't want to give any more awards to the Huns, so (by a narrow margin) the award for Best T-Shirt went to PETER SELLERS and Dick THE PRICK's pricks (Run 825).

The Best Run category is always difficult to decide, because everyone has their own idea of what a good run should be. BARBIE DOLL likes a two hour marathon through streams and mud, while BUDGIE prefers a short stroll down to the nearest kopi tiam. The Committee was looking for a run that was long enough to be good exercise, but not so long that hashmen were still crawling in from the dark after two hours. Runs where FATIMAH consulted were automatically disqualified. The best runs kept the pack together with checks and false trails, and made good use of a variety of terrain (while keeping everyone guessing as to the route). Future hares should note that almost all of the nominees which were considered for the Best Run award in 1995 were laid in the Mandai area. Honorable mentions go to PETER SELLERS and Dick THE PRICK for Run 825 at Mandai Track 16, and to the three Huns for the Oktoberfest Run at Jalan Ulu Sembawang. However, by a very close vote, the award for the Best Run Of The Year went to NAVIGATOR, VIRGINIA SLIM, and ANAL for the American Independence Day '95 Run.

The award for Worst Run Of The Year (sometimes called Hash Shit Of The Year) is normally awarded automatically to CINDERELLA and ATOMIC ROD. However, these two have finally gotten the message, and they did not set a run together in 1995. The choice was still quite easy. It took precisely 5.8 seconds for the Committee to vote unanimously to award the Hash Shit Of The Year to the run which took three hours to lay by motorbike. No hashman completed the entire run, and this had nothing to do with the fact that it was pouring down rain all night. The only reason that the hares were not murdered instantly on-site was the good ring-burner curry that they provided. But even good makan cannot rescue a true hash shit run. How many of you hashmen remember Run 814 at Kent Ridge by orangutan-lookalike AH MENG and that c**t PAPA SMURF?

In addition to the normal awards for 1995, there was one very special award presented. There was one hash in 1995 that could have been considered in several different categories: Best Run, Best T-Shirt, and Best On-Site Makan (or perhaps Best Eatout). Perhaps the run itself wasn't the best run of the year, and perhaps there were other T-shirts that were just as colorful, but overall the whole evening (including the runsite, the makan, and the on-on-on) was definitely a once-in-a-lifetime event. Therefore, an award was presented for the Best Hash of the year to STRAIGHT SPOUT and PERFECT for the perfect Run 817 on Pulau Tekong.

Many of the Seletar hashmen set great runs last year with good makan and wild On-On-Ons. Those who did not receive an award should not feel cheated. There was a lot of good competition for the awards in 1995, and we expect to see even better competition in 1996 as this year's hares do their best to organize hash events which their fellow hashmen will consider for the 1996 Annual Seletar Hash Awards.

Report of the 370km Road-Relay Run from Singapore to Petaling Jaya 9-10 May 1996

Script contributors:

OPTO, SAYETING, TWO STROKE, KERETAPI, DOUBLE BACK, POPEYE, STRAIGHT SPOUT, MONKEYBALLS, POPEYE and SNAKE EATER

When Malaysia's PM Dr. Mahathir urged his youth to be adventurous and go for the South Pole or the top of Mt. Everest, Seletar's GM SAYETING at once started a relay from Singapore to Petaling Jaya, so that when the flag is planted, Seletar's logo will be pinned to it.

"Journey of a thousand miles begins with one step". Nobody knows if the Sage took that step. But we did, at 4.45am at the Woodlands McDonald's car park when the GM flagged us off.

I carried the baton as I was the first runner (accompanied by my daughter, Ruby, who had collected a sizable donation from the Wednesday Hash). Crossed the Causeway, cleared Immigration and along the coastal Jalan Skudai, taking it easy on a bright dry morning. Then, even before we could welcome the dawn, we had finished our stretch, when I handed the baton over to Roger RABBIT.

The car escorts with a wheelchair rider from the Singapore Sports Council for the Disabled (whose charity this relay was in aid of), followed the lone runner, when he handed over to KY JELLY, further up the old trunk road. Team Leader SUKU, true to his name and driving the next runner, missed the turning to Pontian. When SUKU realised his mistake and retrieved the route, KY had already done 2 stretches (and refused help from OPERA), and had completed their sector of the run. SMALL SIZE spent $26 on taxi fare to bring him to the run, only to be shocked when told that he did not need to run anymore. Seeing SMALL SIZE almost in tears with disappointment, KICHIBHAI offered his 2km for him to complete.

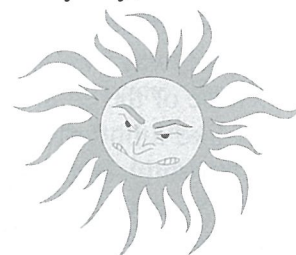

"14 runners to cover 52 km?" said the leader KICHIBHAI, "I don't know if my boys can do it, see, we are not serious runners, most of us are short cutters on normal run, I will have to work on these guys to get them going." Anyway, KICHI got his boys going alright, in flying colours to be exact. By doing short stretches of 0.5km to 2km, even GENERAL looked like a runner. The team was able to run at speeds of between 11-14 km/hour, and covering their sectors 45 minutes ahead of schedule. After the run, the team in their beer laden a/c bus headed straight to a Toddy joint, seafood and massage etc etc. After the day of fun, they returned to Singapore, giving Petaling Jaya a pass. Team 5 which originally consisted of 4, finally on the day of the run was down to one, the leader, when the rest pulled out due to work commitments etc. With SNAKE HIP recruited by the GM at the last minute. KICHIBHAI's team finished in grand style at the Benut Police Station. We had to call off our planned lunch because KICHIBHAI was running too fast and was 45 minutes ahead of schedule. "What the heck, only 22km to cover, we'll finish it quickly and then have lunch", said TWO STROKE (2S). The run started at 12.30pm by 2S doing the first leg, who intended to do about 30 minutes before passing over the baton to the SH. 20 minutes later TS's tongue was dragging on the road. As we proceeded, the scorching sun was killing. However with the help of SIBOK, SHORTIE ROO and FLUTER (who happened to drop in at this crucial time), and changing their tactic from long, half hour stretches, to short, 10 minute stretches, Sector 5 was completed about 30 minutes ahead of time. While the runners took a break at the roadside drink stall and waited for LOST AND FOUND, we saw him zooming pass in his Saab, missing the Escort car, Team car and about 10 guys by the side of the road - this guy must be blind. Luckily we were able to contact him by phone and he made a U-turn back to our rendezvous point.

L&F who undertook to complete Sector 6 alone, was ready in a minute, "22km? No problem lah. I just did the Marathon last month", off he went on a fast pace. Half hour into his run, he was signalling the Escort car for water. Another 15 minutes and more water, we could see that the sun had taken a heavy toll on him. "Gee! the temperature is killing me," said L&F. Anyway, SNAKE HIP and TWO STROKE were at hand to help out. After a 15 minute break and a good helping of 100 Plus, L&F was on his way again. He did a total of at least 18 km and 7 hills over some very scenic spots before Melaka, however in the condition he was in, he probably won't be able to enjoy it. "Phew! Another hill, f**k the GM for setting me up". After completing his sector of the run, a quick change of clothing and he was off on his way back to Singapore. That's the Seletar spirit, my good guy.

"I'll scorch you b%^*#!"

Sector 7 was covered by a Yankee, a SIBOK, a Kangaroo and 2 very hungry Chinamen who had not had lunch. As reported by SHORTIE ROO, me and my $1200/week rented Corolla (!) picked up FLUTER at lunch time and together with my other half (need you mention who?), had a nice drive along the coastal road and arrived before the changeover point way ahead of time (1½ hours early). Had a little snacks and drinks with the GM and the SSC for the Disabled guys and runners. It was a very hot afternoon and I had to run bare-body. Together with SIBOK and FLUTER, we helped out in sector 5 and 6 and continued to run on our sector doing 3 km stretch at a time. At this point the disabled joined in the run. Passed through little township with many starry eyes and clapping of hands along the way. Took a couple of shots with my camera along the way and later at the hotel in Melaka realised that there was no film in the bloody camera inside! Anyway, finished our sector and off to Melaka to party on. P/s had a few beers along the relay run. VIRGINIA SLIME and TIGHT ARSE were called to rescue our Marshal's "Pizza Racer

"Can't you tell a koala from a Kangaroo stupid!"

Steamer" which ran out in full steam at the NS HWY. We took over the baton just before 8.00pm which was 20km North of BP and managed to catch up with time. As ATOMIC ROD had not turned up for the first stretch of the run (f**king pearl diver cannot keep a straight time), TIGHT ARSE took over and was really enjoying the run and the motivation from the 2 police escort cars. He did 8.5km before handing over to VIRGINIA SLIME who immediately promised to complete the rest of the 21 km if ATOMIC ROD did not turn up. Finally, to the disappointment of VIRGINIA SLIME and the relief of the leader, ATOMIC ROD arrived in his "matchbox" car. After completed 10 klicks, ATOMIC ROD kept shouting "its hurting, its hurting", in great pain. But after a few hundred meters, we arrived in Muar. The curious people along the streets applauded with encouragement. ATOMIC ROD was really in high spirit. So high that he had forgotten about the pain and he just kept on going until he completed sector 9 in 2 hours and 40 minutes.

Although their run starts at 2253 hours, KERETAPI and his team consisting of MOHD ALI, SMALL THING, and Lawrence Tham met at Woodland McDonald's at 6.00 pm. and proceeded to JB for an intended dinner. On the way we received an SOS phone call from TOUCH-ME-NOT and SKIDMARKS requesting us to pick them up because of the breakdown of their vehicle. We picked them up at the highway and headed straight for Muar for the much awaited dinner. While the team was enjoying the chicken rice and noodle at a hawker stall, KERETAPI was treated to a hair raising experience of slalom riding in the evening Muar traffic on a motor bike, in his mission to buy ice for his team. Phew! This is just as bad as Bangkok. We were somewhat lost in our route to the changeover until one Kwaioh put us to shame by leading us to our destination. As we were changing into our running gear, we could see the police lead car with the Flasher in the horizon. "Wah! 23 minutes ahead of schedule." SMALL THING, our elite runner, took off like an arrow in the wind. This guy is so carried away by the fun of being escorted by the police vehicle that he kept on going, "two more km, lah". The police almost led us to the opposite direction if not for our familiarity of the area due to the extra "rounding around" when we were lost. Anyway, we guided the police across the bridge and headed straight to Melaka, on target. Because of the enlarged team (6 runners), we did fun run by doing short stretch. Even the not-quite-float-like-a-butterfly MOHD ALI, was so enthusiastic that he forgot about his Computer (which was recently upgraded and not properly run in) and put in a fair share of running for his team. "Wise man say the strength of your CPU depend on how much work and exercise you put in" Keep it going, ALI. The team who finished in high spirit after a last minute rescue by SMALL THING who covered the last 6 km by himself, headed for Melaka for another fun marathon session of alcohol abuse, sleeping only at 5.00am in the morning. Our sincere heartfelt thanks to Lawrence Tham and SMALL THING for their sacrifice. They returned to Singapore in the wee hours of the morning after the run.

With some earlier mishaps with the borrowed Hyundai, the team comprising of VIRGINIA SLIME and STRAIGHT SPOUT arrived at 8km out of BP in a Mitsubishi to take over from SAYETING as Marshals of the graveyard shift. OPD and SGT. BILKO was to drive up from Singapore to re-enforced this team later. As we took to the road one by one in the approaching darkness of dusk, an air of excitement prevailed. Villagers were greeting with smiles and cheers. Later SGT. BILKO took to the road and he went as though the PONTIANAK was behind him. One of SAF secret fighting machines, he covered 13.5km at about 13km/hr. Phew! what a run, we had to stop him from running, otherwise there won't be anything for others to run. While Marshal STRAIGHT SPOUT was keeping his eyes on the runners, VIRGINIA SLIME was constantly trying his best with SS's wife at the back seat. "Now, I was really in trouble, don't know whether to keep my eye on VS or on the runner." SS confessed later. There was an overly enthusiastic display of egoism when VS snatched the baton from OPD in a desperate attempt to outdo the good Sergeant, who probably put VS in the backseat with his powerful run earlier. Eventually, OPD was assigned his share of the run. He completed the last 5km in 54 minutes. "How to run so slow", came the reply. Anyway he did, 5 steps forward and 4 step backwards, the team arrived at the changeover point. The team agreed it was one hell-of-a eventful road relay, enjoyed by all, including Mrs. Truly. FIRST BLOOD's team performances can best be described in two simple words, FOOD and LUXURY. They met in FB's luxury house, drove up to Melaka in a luxury car, had a luxurious dinner at the seafront stall, slept in style in a luxurious suite, took over the run at changeover point right in front of their hotel, finished the run and had more food. The truth of the story is that LED ASTRAY did most of the running, DOUBLE BACK did the backup, PWEeeeeeeee got all the limelight and FIRST BLOOD stayed in his Merc and did the driving. "The road-relay was more interesting than the run on Saturday."

POPEYE's team comprising of WRONG SIZE, SHADES and TOMATO spent the night in the Meridien in Melaka, hoping to be fully charged up for their run at 6.00am the following day. Unfortunately, as should be expected, the GM and his team of merry men, about 20 of them, came to the room after completing their sectors of the run. There was beer, stout and instant noodles all round. All the funny and hilarious events that happened on the run was re-told. There were laughter after laughter and if not for the fact that we had the whole floor to ourselves, we would have been evicted from the hotel. "How to sleep?" Anyway, the Team was up and ready at their changeover point on time. As POPEYE was running through Alor Gajah in the early morning, the whole village (almost) came out to greet him, cheering and clapping as he ran along. Later he was to be told the reason of this thunderous reception. The villagers thought that he ran all the way from Singapore alone. With a near-miss (radiator hose slip out) and a diarrhoea condition, POPEYE was able to meet up with MOHD ALI, TOUCH ME NOT, PWEEEEEEEE, TOMATO, SHADES, and KERETAPI for 18 holes in Port Dickson.

Team 13 did their sector of the run in military style and precision. As described by SNAKE EATER, 4 brave men led by their able leader Major F-M-N was to "punched" through flat and hilly terrain to complete their "Do or Die" mission. On 10 May at 10.00 am sharp, their troop reached the war front and saw Major POPEYE running away from the enemy line with tanks close behind him. The Major was carrying a document of utmost importance to be handed to the Military HQ in Petaling Jaya. As he was running out of breath, Commando RSM SNAKE EATER grabbed the cylindrical container from him and started running strongly away, closely pursued by the enemy in their flashing beacon vehicles. Later Private Broken-Leg BUDGIE, Private Grumpy WOODSTOCK and Major FORGET-ME-NOT took turns to help out in the running, to out manoeuvre the enemy. Everyone was in high spirits and the brave leader even took it in his stride (by mistake) to charged up the hill single-handedly at Seremban Light Industrial Park and conquered the hill. They handed their "secret document" to the reinforcements which came to take over from them. Their mission, ACCOMPLISHED. They stayed on the run to back-up MONKEY BALLS' team, who had 3 of their men shot dead behind enemy lines. Everyone of this team received a "Purple Heart" for bravery.

My original team had two members and a leader. One kwailoh decided to pull out from the run because of some matrimonial obligations and needed to reserve his much needed energy for the honeymoon. The other, strangely enough, decided to tag along with these newlyweds on their honeymoon. These last-minute pull-outs and some dissuading comments by non-participants did not discourage me from the run. I went runner-hunting and found SMILING BUDDHA doing nothing for that weekend and dying to have a good workout and some fun. 30km with one runner, we needed help badly, I was astonished by the help I got. I didn't have the chance to run much myself. Took over at the "KL 52km" milestone at 12.05 from BUDGIE (Do you believe it?). The noon heat was melting the tar beneath out feet as I started the hardest 3 km I have ever run. Remembering the old Indian, I was desperately holding on to my breathing, for obvious reasons, but without much success. The first stretch was long and hilly and when I come to Martin Town, I had to tuck in my drooping tongue (which is almost touching the road by now), and picked up speed. The whole town was cheering and clapping which really made me feel good that I came for the run. Those fellows at home will never be able to savour the feelings I have right now. After

Martin town, PRESS ONCE took over for 2 km, followed by SMILING BUDDHA. Soon the team grew bigger as highly charged hashers from other sectors before Melaka (after spending a nite in Melaka) came to help out (WRONG SIZE, WOODSTOCK, PRESS ONCE, SHORTIE ROO, FLUTER, TIGHT ARSE, PONTIANAK, SNAKE EATER and myself). Like TIGHT ARSE would say, "Wha! so manneeee lunnners, ahh!" At 14.35 hrs we brought our baton, Seletar aspiration and pride, to the Kajang Club, the ending point where we had a good reception. Plenty of drinks, the famous Kajang satay and welcoming hands of PJ and Kajang Hashers. Whereby marked the ending of a historical run - the longest road relay run (370 kms) ever done by Seletar. It will be quite some time before someone comes along to organise a run of this distance.

"Finishhhhhhh"

"I am glad we are part of this history, no regrets only great memory."

SELETAR HHH INAUGURAL GOLF '96

3 July 1996 at Raffles Country Club

The idea of a golf tournament for hashers was mooted during the Charity Relay Run to Petaling Jaya, KL in May. A few diehard golfers ("Tomato" Gan, "Pweee" Chan, "Kreta Api" Willie, "Popeye" Rajoo, "Two Strokes" James, to name a few), had lugged their golf bags, run and golfed all the way from the Causeway to PJ. They nearly missed the 1000th PJ run after playing a game at the Shah Alam Course (a magnificent course for those who have not played there yet). "Pweee" was the unanimous choice to lead the organising of the tournament for his numerous contacts with sponsors. The rest of the organising committee were those diehard bastards mentioned earlier.

Hashers and friends were invited to play in the Inaugural Tournament which was arranged to be a shot-gun start commencing at 1 pm at the Lake Course, Raffles Country Club (RCC). By the deadline of 26 June 96, some 166 hashers and friends had given their names. That was grossly over the 128 recommended by RCC (with maximum capacity of 144 players). A decision was taken to strike off the names of those who did not send in their cheques with the registration form, except for sponsors. The final figure was a more manageable 136.

The Day

The torrential rain in the morning threatened to screw up the inaugural event. The diehards and the great (looking) helpers nevertheless turned up at 10 am for the preparations. With typical hash efficiency, all the goody bag packing, score cards, locker keys, banners etc were ready by 11.30 am.

Drizzle persisted but the diehards golfers started streaming in from 12 noon. By 1pm, 134 turned up, including 15 ladies - only two "no-show" bastards. The game was delayed by a half hour to allow the course to dry up. All the buggies with the anxious golfers were then "flagged off" to their respective tee-boxes.

The Game

Play at the Lake Course was off (back) white tees. After the initial jam, all the golfers started enjoying the game. Virginia Slim's flight must have enjoyed thoroughly, seeing more than 10 of his balls going into water and hazards. From "reliable" sources, he did enjoy his virgin game on a proper golf course.

The first golfer marched in at 6.30 pm. "Tomato" was at hand to receive the score cards, verified and given to the number crunching clerk from RCC. "Two Strokes" helped with the final tally of the results. Golfers in the meantime proceeded to Tiger Breweries for their makan and "On-Ons". "Pweee", "Popeye", "Kreta Api" and the sexy assistants were there to sort out the prizes.

Results

The Inaugural event, as expected, witnessed the numerous buayas and buayees on the prowl. The overall champion was See Lai Meng (Octville) who scored a blasting 48 stableford points. That was a 18 handicapper playing to 6 handicap, his gross 78 score equaling Greg Norman's final game in the 1996 US Master at the Augustus! The lady champion, Shirley Tan (RCC handicap 25) was no less formidable, scoring 47 stableford points. The other division champions scored 47, 47 and 46 points respectively. "Two Strokes" scored 44 points, the best Seletar player of the day. The Lychee Award should go to "Virginia Slim" who scored an "incredible TWO POINTS" for the tournament. He promised to work on his game and come back with vengeance next year.

The prizes were very attractive, with a full set of golf clubs for the overall champion and crystal trophies for all the champions. The Crystal Challenge Trophy and Division Champion crystal trophies were donated by the past and present Seletar GMs. Sadly, no one had an ace for the blue Rover 216 CPE. For the 2/3 participants without the prizes, the lucky draw prizes were even more attractive - $1000 dollars worth of Karaoke and liquor at My Wife's Place, XO brandy, super Stereo set, drivers and many others. "Two Days", who also played his virgin 18-hole game, walked away with the $300 graphite driver for the lucky draw. All the golfers had a great time at the Tiger Tavern and down-downs lasted until 11 pm, way past the closing time of the tavern. The extended hospitality was possible with the presence of the No. 2 man of Tiger Breweries. Thanks to Mr. Loke Soon Choo.

The Inaugural Event was a great success. This would not have been possible without all the sponsors including Asia Pacific Breweries, Healthsports Marketing, American Golf Technology, Intra-Motors, My Wife's Place, Golf Zone, Harlow Golf and Sports Pte Ltd, Winston's Pte Ltd, Puma Pte Ltd, Dunlop Slazenger Sports Pte Ltd, Lee Cooper Pte Ltd, Singapore Pools, ParWorld International Pte Ltd, F&N Coca-Cola, Nestle's Singapore, Snowbee Pte Ltd, Kong Guan Biscuits, Siamese Fins Restaurant, Thia and Associates, etc. and the support from Seletar HHH, hashers and friends. The organising committee plans to organise a charity golf game in 1997.

"HASHING IN THE EARLY DAYS"

Leon NUTS Lui

When I was young and in my prime, I used to do it all the time. Now I'm old and my hair is grey, I can only do it once a day. Even then, it takes me all night to do what I used to do all night.

After twenty-nine years of on and off hashing, I must admit that I am not the hashman that I used to be. When I started hashing in Sandakan back in 1967, I was not old enough to drive! So, I did not have to worry about driving home after the on-on-on. In those days, I do not suppose hashmen had to worry about being caught driving with too much alcohol in their blood. We only had to worry about running off the road because the drain jumped out in front of us, or running into a tree which also jumped in front of us. Luckily, roads were not as crowded then. We were also lucky as the cars those days could not travel very much faster than 30 mph.

Back then, the attendance was very low. Maybe twenty odd each week. The Grand Master happened to work for the Anchor Beer distributor, so the hares just had to pick up the few crates of beer, chill them, serve them, pay for whatever was consumed and then return the rest which will probably be sold to unsuspecting outlets. The runs can be short and all of them were live hare runs. I remembered the run where we were missing a runner. When we sent out the search party, we found him perched on a tree, settled in for the night. Wild panthers and bears were not uncommon in the area we run in. Ice was not easy to come by, so we did not have the circle and we did not have to sit on ice. No food was served, so we terrorise a restaurant after the run and usually drink them dry. Wine, dine and song went hand in hand even then, so we did drank, ate and sang, of course mostly rugby songs.

My next involvement in hashing was in the late seventies with the Medan hash. Monday nights were religiously reserved for hashing. Most hashers had drivers, so driving home was not a concern. Runs were tough, but the drinks afterwards were rewarding. I do not recall any run where we did not have to wade through waist deep running water. The hash steward, equivalent of the whip, would meter out down-downs. Sometimes up to sixty each run. Once again, there was no icing nor food. Invariably, we ended up in a restaurant and then some bar till it closed at 2 am.

When I joined Seletar in 1980, the group was small. There were very few rules. None of this "The Whip is right" crap. We did not even have a whip then. We frequented the Seletar officer's mess after the run as a source of cheap beer. Driving under the influence of alcohol was not a big thing then. Luckily for us, the mess usually closed at 11 pm. Unlucky for us, we discovered Soup Tulang in the Adam Road hawker centre, so we ended up there, patronizing my godmother, Ah Soh, many a nights. Singing was a big part of hashing. Seletar hash had its own anthem, and the guitar was adopted into our logo.

Over the years, rules and tradition were being constantly introduced. Drinking and driving became a taboo. The Whip is always right. The hares are discouraged from following the pack on the run. Icing and water baths become every run affairs. Beer wagon provides the drinks. Setting runs with chalk and flour is encouraged. Once a month eat-outs are enjoyed by many. Wearing new shoes entitles you to drink out of the shoes after the run. And many, many, more.

Unfortunately, so much of the history of our hash has been implanted into those damaged brain cells we accumulated over the hundreds of Tuesday nights. There may not be a way to retrieve them, but it is good to know that there is still a group of runners who call themselves the committee, and they work hard to continue to create history and establish traditions for people like me to write about. On on on to run no. 888!

"HASHING THROUGH THE EYES OF A HOME GUARD"

FATIMAH

OPTO has once again been given the job of compiling a souvenir magazine, not because he did a fantastic job the last time but because no one else would do it. As there are few recyclable trash from recent issues of the Seletar Guzzler, the old geezer had to beg for contributions. Much as I dislike this asshole, I could not turn the blind old man down.

Yes, it is no longer thru the eyes of a "soldier". Many of my army commanders sigh with relief when I was seconded to the home team. Their prayers that I would never return to the Army have been answered. I parted company with "spit and polish" with a heavy heart. But you guys at Seletar have made the transition painless. I always marvel at how a bunch of Mamas, Kwailohs, Chinamen, Bhais and Melayu can come together week after week.

In the US of A, old soldiers never die, they just fade away. In Singapore, old infantry soldiers like myself fade into the home guards "Dad's Army" a.k.a. the Civil Defense Forces, the elite search and rescue chaps of Hotel New World and KL's Highland Towers fame.

Retirement brought a windfall. A big chunk of the gratuity $$$ was used to buy peace at the home front. Meals are now served with a smile, soiled hash gear gets washed without complaint, late nights are tolerated etc. The missus still throws crap around but that is a welcomed diversion, because it can be too god-damned quiet, and I am still not used to it. Nowadays, I can now stand tall next to SUKU and, like him, bang the table and shout "Hello, who in charge!"

On the hashing front, I shall start from 777, the Jackpot run, commanded by PALERIDER, with POPEYE as ops manager. I threw in my lot, as requested and as expected of me, I did it my way, of course. My promises of free food, give aways and threats of weekend guard duties, etc, brought in many "volunteers" from my Malay regiment. But cheap Charlie, to my dismay, short-changed the helpers, the go-fers doing menial jobs for the organising committee.

Nothing spectacular happened during BOO C/B's committee year. If anything, BCB earned the dubious honour as the disappearing GM. Low keyed and "bosiah and bo chap", the club was held together by one weird looking Yank, VIRGINIA SLIM, squeaky HARSHMAN, and an array of ad-hoc mystery whips. Surprisingly, BCB had a lot to say at the AGM, the last day of his term.

The arsehole Chinaman BCB is now a rookie lawyer. He celebrated his calling to the non-alcohol serving Bar by sponsoring a hashrun and an autobiography of himself. With Seletar Hash? No, old chaps. With the goddamned pussies' hash. But at the designated runsite there wasn't a decent carpark. It's yours truly to the rescue. Presto, a creditable carpark in record time. It, however, took a Seletar guzzler to fuck it up. HANS SOLO's scrap-heap broke down at the entrance. Sizing up the situation, Malay regiment and I beat a retreat. Rallied the troops, switched on the klaxon and lights and headed to the nearest watering hole, leaving the bald Bhai to the lynching party. If you don't believe in the old adage "Hell hath no fury as that of a woman scorned" you should have been there!

In the past 100 weeks, I have been awarded the coveted hashshit a few times even when I wasn't the designated hare of the runs. I was just the good-natured helpful guy, helping my buddies during my idle moments. In VIRGINIA SLIM's myopic eyes, I "earned" the award for being run-consultant, run-contractor, etc. It pisses me off, at times, but I forgive him. He must have a hard time, as a conscript in Nam.

I missed the charity run to KL because my passport was not valid for travel, and not because my missus had hidden my passport as ARSE GRABBER had insinuated. I learnt of a few interesting side-shows in that event. One stupid cunt had to run 15 kms instead of the usual 3 kms because his team captain took the wrong turn and waited to pick him at the right time but at the wrong place. Then there were runners being picked up by wrong cars. There was also a group that was nearly mowed down when they mistook an 18-wheeler for a police patrol car.

There were a few interesting stories about Interhash 1996 at Cyprus. But all these stories had a common ending: all were fucking ripped off, some more than others. CHUNNI TALLEH tried to cover-up his loss by boasting that he "got paid for being laid"! ON-ON TO INTER-HASH 1997 AT KUALA LUMPUR.

The annual meeting of the batanghood, Ujong-PeeJay-Seletar, was very well attended. Seletar hosted the 1996 event successfully, to the relief of CHAMP and FER. SNAKE-EATER, HARDCOCK and WOODSTOCK were the apparent slaves of the event. THANK YOU, GUYS. Now that I cannot requisition army surplus stores, the task now falls on the idiot from the Commandos and SGT. BILKO from SAFTI. An arsehole from PeeJay enjoyed the do so much that he nearly left his son back in Changi!

We have a few new members, notably another two soldiers. Now that a second melayu has masok barris, we should look forward to a Hari Raya special hared by SGT. BILKO and MOHD ALI? We also dumped a few shitheads, thanks to the sustained efforts of hash cash OPD in 1995.

OPERA keeps a low profile: one diluted beer and often forsaking the dinner queue. He has taken to going off with MAD DOG to spread the holy words in remote areas in Thailand and Cambodia.

STICKING TISSUE and SAMPOH (aka SKINNY) gotten hitched. At the moment, only GENERAL, SAMPOH, and PERUT BESAR are in the exclusive club: car owners without licences. The long hours our boys in blue are patrolling our expressways and bye-ways, I shall not be surprised if GENERAL and PERUT complain that exclusivity is lost.

NUTS has returned safely from an overseas posting. HASH FLASH cheated death in India but left with a weakened beer-drinking arm. MADONNA resurfaced unexpectedly, and he now runs with the pussy hash as well. Previously, I had trouble making myself heard when MADONNA was around. Now HARSHMAN speaks louder than him. He is off the piss and looking trim i.e. if you can see thru the smoke screen that constantly envelopes him. The arsehole still has not got the hash song right, but the real Madonna would give him an A-plus for effort.

Cliques within Seletar have now (sadly) been firmly established. Do-ray-mee still trudging up hills. Kwailohs meet on Tuesdays at the runsites to plan the weekends activities. Mamas meet at Garden Hotel. The Khalsers at the Graggo's club at the Westin end of the Padang. AMK has forsaken the coffeeshops and now meets at four/five star hotels. At the insistence of STRAIGHT SPOUT the informal AMK will soon be a registered society, with SS as the pro-tem president.

In the last 12 months we've bid farewell to two great friends, Uncle Mike CROTCH and JOG. Their "tickers" gave way, forcing them to switch membership to the ultimate hash chapter, the Pearly Gate Hash. They are now hashing happily in the big blue yonder with GUNSMOKE and JACKFRUIT. I have always admired the willingness of hashers to pool talent and resources to help families of late members without any arm-twisting, and what makes it more unique is that you guys have so much fun doing it. The army can take some pointers from you guys.

But it is all not hunky dory in Seletar. In the past 100 weeks I have seen the ugly side of hashmen, their greedy and jealous streaks. A recalcitrant subs-defaulter turns up regularly at special hash functions. Over food, there was the ugly reaction to GIGI's providing a generous supply of fingerfood but not following that with Mr. Hoe's BBQ spare-ribs. A week later, I saw the relief on anxious faces when Mr. Hoe turned up at 9.30pm, after BCB had repeatedly reminded members that it would be GIGI's style finger food all-night. At the Chinamen's special, guest Kwailohs expect free meals and freebies for the price of the guest fee.

Over T-shirts, a hashman accepted and then bitched about it being a sponsored Tee and therefore only some can be given. "Class" distinctions being introduced, with Tees of different designs and patterns for different people. I had been accused of taking more than one freebie when all I did was to collect them for my absent friends who had made prior arrangements with the hares for me to do so on their behalf.

In all these ungracious instances, I had not expected hash batangs to be petty minded, like the uniformed personnel, or to be less bitchy than the hash pussies. I was sadly mistaken. But I would like to be corrected.

In conclusion, I find the runs apparently longer and lonelier. I have been relegated to the tail end because legs are not what they used to be. Now size 44 tees are getting to be a bit uncomfortable, around the beer belly. But, shit, like my hero Douglas Macarthur, I shall return every Tuesday. I enjoy the camaraderie, not withstanding the ugliness shown by some office bearers and members.

777 CELEBRATION RUN

Run site : Echo Valley, Dairy Farm Road

Date : 12-13 November 1994

There were three runs: long, medium and short. Reports for the long and medium runs (both bus out) are collected below.

The Long Run (OPTO's Report)

The "live" hares were VIRGINIA SLIM and MUFFDIVER.

As I belong to the "A" team, I boarded the 4.15 pm bus which took those who opted for the "long" run for the "bus-out" ride to the start site at Mandai quarry. The bus was filled to capacity with predominantly Kwailohs and 2 Indians. The only Chinamen were the MAD one, DEEPHOLE, SCOOTER and myself.

It was to be a "live-hare" run, i.e. if the hares were caught on the run they would be slaughtered on the spot, like they do with the fox at the fox hunt in England, where the season has just started. Controversial, it may be, but that is the name of the game.

Mindful of this, the 2 "live" hares, MUFFDIVER and VIRGINIA SLIM, asked for a 13 minute head start. This Kwailoh pair are amongst the finest of Seletar's FRBs, and they really need not fear. But amongst the pack were many mean-looking Kwailohs from Monday, Friday and the Mother Hash, all set on the start line, just waiting for a kill. Even our MAD CHINAMAN gave up his sweeper's horn for the chase.

There were 35 of us, plus 2 ladies. At 4.42 pm, the pack was unleashed by NEUTRON ROD, who held the stop watch, and the hunt started, following traces of flour dropped behind by the now disappeared hares.

It had rained all night before and the ground was wet. With an overcast sky from the haze which had not yet cleared, it was pretty comfortable, despite the early hour of the afternoon start.

The chase went around Mandai quarry, where 2 cleverly laid checks held up the FRBs, allowing not only myself to catch up, but also gave the hares a further lead into the distance.

Getting away from the quarry, the hunt went up a slight hill, along walking tracks, and onto open ground again, for a 3rd check, where I caught up with the FRBs once more. SHORTIE ROO was returning from under a ravine where he had gone to "check it out."

777 CELEBRATION RUN (continued)

Unlike the noisy fox hunt with hounds barking as they went about the hunt on horses in the English woods, our "live-hare" chase was a relatively quiet affair. Not a single call was heard and the sweeper did not sound the horn. Perhaps the FRBs, mostly from the other hashes, have not heard about calling, or they were saving their energy, bent for a kill. After the 3rd check, I did not get to see or hear the pack anymore, which had gone on ahead. I was left behind, appropriately with ANAL.

The trail followed the forested catchment areas out to a minor road at the shore of Seletar lake, where a "half-way" drink stop was provided by the hares. Then, a short stretch along the shores of the reservoir, more shiggy across a stream, up through the bushes, and open ground again, for a "run back" check which was not broken.

Crossing familiar hilly ground now, the trail led to the Chinese temple at the end of Chestnut Avenue.

Here, at the Chinese temple, all markings ceased. It had to go through the bushes over to the BKE, but we could not find any flour. After searching for 5 minutes, ANAL, myself and a Kwailoh from the Mother Hash decided to return by road via Chestnut Avenue. I did not get back until 2 hours later and I heard that the first runners were back by 1:40.

That it proved a "long" run was what it was set out to be. It was well-laid and, for me, a comfortable distance. That I could not get to complete the end part did not in any way diminish my thrill on this my first "live-hare" chase - even when I did not get to see the hares after the start.

777 Medium Run (BARBIE DOLL'S Report)

What was I doing on the medium run? Feeling the effects of a four-week holiday in India, that's what. Oh, and enjoying the sight of some very cute Harriets stretching their legs wide. After a bus ride out that seemed to go on forever, we spent even longer searching for the first sign of paper. Once that formality was sorted out, we embarked on a course that I recall very little of now (hey, honesty is the best policy). All that springs to mind is the sight of some very happy hashmen. This was the direct result of them hearing women shouting "On, On".

For alcoholics who're only used to hearing the opposite -- if they do manage to get to that stage in the first place -- it was hash heaven. No wonder the stupid buggers blindly followed any soprano yelp of "On-On".

Back at Echo Valley, the excitement continued. The gallant lads of Seletar HHH offered to wash their elegant -- but slightly grimy -- female counterparts. An offer that didn't meet with much acceptance, unfortunately. Even plying them with much Anchor didn't help. Although many are the stories being told now, nobody believes you wankers anyway. To cut this bullshit short, good run (even though I remember very little of it) and an even better party later. Well done, Seletar!

DEEPAVALI RUN '95

Run No. : #828 a.k.a. "Deepavali Run"
Date : 24th October 1995
Site : Pakistan Road
Hares : COOLBEER, BUSOK (stand-in for HANS SOLO) and THE CONSULTANT

The Seletar Indians chose to celebrate their annual run one day after Deepavali itself, and this date also saw a ¼ eclipse of the sun in Singapore - an event which happened 150 years ago, and will not occur again until another 150 years hence.

The Pakistan Road run-site was chosen by the hares (I guess for the Indians' love for Pakistan), but it confused me somewhat when I arrived, following the hash signs, at the Sembawang Country Club, to find that all the runners had departed and there was no one on-site. The down-pour started sharp at 6.00 pm as I was trying to look for the start paper. Then came a pair of Kwailohs (late-comers) whom, upon my enquiry, told me that I had arrived for the Monday hash. A mistake, I thought, to have chosen a run-site so close by and, doubtless, the Tuesday and Monday trails were going to criss-cross.

Getting back to my car to look for Pakistan Road, I encountered FORGET ME NOT running down Canberra Road (maybe in despair after being awarded the hash shit at last week's run). Further up at Ottawa Road, I drove into the Seletar pack, scattered and looking for the first check.

On arrival at Pakistan Road, I found our two hares, but they were unable to give me directions to where the start point was, as they had "farmed-out" the run to THE CONSULTANT, and the hares had no idea what THE CONSULTANT had done.

"Go ask THE CONSULTANT." COOLBEER said.

"Who?" I asked.

"Find FATIMAH." was his reply. Perhaps I need not have asked.

FATIMAH, the perennial consultant who guarantees anyone stupid enough to ask him a guaranteed hash-shit, was found busying himself inside the Eagle Club, nearby.

"Why half-hour late?" demanded FATIMAH.

"Eclipse of the sun; I lost my way." I replied, which was truthful, as I had landed up at the Monday hash run-site earlier on. I explained to FATIMAH that I was the assigned scribe, so could he tell me (at this late hour) how I could connect up on the trail, so that I could put something on paper, if I can find the paper trail.

Speaking without thinking as he always does, FATIMAH suggested that I "farm-out" the scribe to someone else.

"No way!" I reprimanded him. I had to do justice to the Indians and so he reluctantly gave me directions.

I went up Ottawa Road, crossed right at Canberra Road, and turned into Admiralty Road West, following FATIMAH's instruction, going all the way to the Terror Naval Base, where paper went into a dirt track on to the open areas behind the Sembawang Sports Complex.

Finding no one at all, and no trace of any footprints on the wet muddy ground (and by now it was getting dark at 7 pm.), I retrieved my way back to the run-site, by which time the majority of the pack had returned. Apparently, the pack lost the check at Ottawa Road and, turning left at Canberra Road (not right), they made their way to Yishun Village and made their own run home.

At about 7.30 pm, VIRGINIA SLIM and CHAMP ran in. Apparently they were the only two on paper, but by now, the verdict was obvious (no need for me to relate where the trail actually went).

At the hash-shit award ceremony, V. SLIM (His Master's Voice) said some kind things about THE CONSULTANT, which I'm too embarrassed to record here, as after all is said and done, FATIMAH is truly a pal of mine (although we don't often see eye-to-eye).

The hares were as mystified as THE CONSULTANT when the hash-shits were ceremoniously laid around their necks, but they made it up with an excellent makan, which was laid out at the nearby Eagle Club. And after the makan, a barrel of draft Tiger was placed on tap. Thanks!

That the run had any claim to Deepavali was the coincidence in the date, as well as the lighted oil-lamps laid around the beer wagon, and the Deepavali Indian designer T-shirt that came in handy after the down-pour.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE DAY RUN '95

Run Report

Run No. : #812 a.k.a. American Independence Day Run '95
Date : 4 July 1995
Site : Woodlands Ave 2 (under Seletar Expressway)
Hares : NAVIGATOR, VIRGINIA SLIM, & ANAL
Scribe : Trevor MARLIN Jones (stand-in)

For quite a while now, our regular running Yanks had been bragging about their upcoming "F*ck the Poms Run". Well, this was the evening for it, the 4th of July, and a good sized crowd turned up. When we arrived at the run site, there was old Tom Paine with Ben and Aretha Franklin disguised as VIRGINIA SLIM, NAVIGATOR and ANAL, though I'm not sure which was whom. They were dressed-up in frock-coats with tricorne hats and waving their cutlasses around; many people remarked on how small VIRGINIA's was compared to his better-blessed co-conspirators. The hares were rambling on about five tons of tea and Boston Harbour and that being the reason for Yanks only drinking coffee. Most people ignored this babble and continued to discuss VIRGINIA's weapon, which everyone noted was only a third the size of ANAL's fine specimen, very sad.

It was supposed to "F*ck the Poms" but the start of the run f*cked everyone. First, a big loop, led by GIRLIE BAR, went over the E'way ramp that brought us right back over the car park where VIRGINIA was sharpening his tiny weapon against a stone. As he passed by, HO CHI MINH warned him, "If you keep rubbing it like that it will wear away and it isn't very big to start with". Then to everyone's confusion, the trail led to a 'T' check a further 200m along the E'way. BARBIE DOLL found the trail leading in towards the end of Steven Lee Road only to quickly end in yet another 'T' check at the bottom of the slope. This was f*ck the Chinamen and the macho Aussies as SKINNY, ATOMIC ROD and CINDERELLA were heading the pack at this point. TIGHT ARSE, our bold sweep, found the trail back at the top of the slope of course, where VIRGINIA was gloating and fondling his tiny weapon yet again while drinking a can of Tiger. It was only five minutes into the run with one loop and two 'T' checks already! However, the run got much better from there on. We didn't see VIRGINIA for a while which was a great improvement in itself. The run was basically a big right hand loop through the Jalan Ulu Sembawang and Lorong Gambas area. It had open country, a hill or two, overgrown plantation, bits of road, a run down a stream for two or three hundred metres and lots more, all very varied terrain; in fact, in spite of being set by three Yanks, it was a very good run. After around 45 minutes the trail turned for home and headed in the direction of Lorong Asmara to the last check at the PUB service reservoir. Here was VIRGINIA again, coming out of the bushes with ARSE GRABBER. One of them had impaled the Tiger can on the end of VIRGINIA's weapon which he was happily waving at the pack as they passed: very odd people the Yanks. Once around the reservoir and down to the SAF shelter at the end of Stephen Lee Road, where NAVIGATOR and ANAL, both equipped with proper man-sized weapons, were handing out the 'T' shirts. It was then a short but slippery way down the E'way embankment and back to the run site.

At the beer wagon we got to examine our giveaways, a 'T' shirt, cut with long sleeves like a baseball player's. Nice, until you read the last of ten insults to Brits printed on the back. It was when we read that most of us decided not to wear the shirt in Singapore, we'll wait until we are off-station, thank you. To keep the night on an American theme, the hares served Yankee beer and food. The food was fine, potatoes, hamburgers, hot dogs, relish, pickles and more, FUCKAWA went up for 4th and 5th rounds. I tried the beer. I tried the Bud, I tried the Coors and I tried the Millers and I wasn't impressed. The beer was best summed up when CINDERELLA shouted, "Hey there's been a tragic mistake, someone's put piss in the beer cans," and a voice from the darkness replied "How can you tell?"

However, it was a great night, the hares did a great job. Thanks Hares.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE DAY RUN '95

Circle Report

Exceptional nites, like exceptional women, need special attention. So folks, we were greeted at the runsite by redcoats in long drape coats wearing three cornered hats and brandishing swords and parangs. It was f**k the Brits nite, and the three silly English cunts who dared to wander into this valley of death and dishonour were promptly buggered senseless, cursed and insulted and then run through. Tough hash this, I tell you. American war songs were heard, and many a curse "f**k the pommies" till it was time for VIRGINIA to point his rusty sword t'ward some yonder hillock . . . and they were off.

JM VIRGINIA SLIM invited last year's JM NAVIGATOR to advise the forthcoming runsites. With ninety wankers talking crap like there's no tomorrow, NAVIGATOR roared out the good news . . . nobody heard a thing. CINDERELLA strode up to help 'fog horn' out the info, but was promptly told where to go. The GM and JM grabbed a few loud mouths to cool their bums and eventually it was NAVIGATOR's time again . . . under a bridge designed to provide for the worlds' worst acoustics possible.

Joint Master VIRGINIA SLIM introduced guests Adam & Mohjit, whom the pack invited to go F/off. Overseas hasher guest the GM of Cyprus H3 was given a down down and told us that the event is not years away - eleven months only, and it's a masterpiece of management . . . yes. Returnee SQUEALING PIG was given the iced water shower. LOA BATMAN was given the usual welcome and Lion City's Bruce and LIZARD were given the ice reception & drinkypoos. Calls TIT BUSTER to cool his bum for not arranging PUB to switch on the street lights.

GM called for FATIMAH not for being consultant or organising army manoeuvres, but for 250 runs. Given a free shower. Pweeeee was iced for wearing posh designer clothes.

GM calls for the hares, all three. Asked for someone to describe the run . . . quickly thought better of it and said "I'll do it - as you lot will be too critical" . . . yes . . . a good run, good use of territory, good use of flour (as distinct from flowers), one of the best runs this year, in ulu, grasslands, hills and little road, despite 3 hares - awarded pisspot because of this achievement and message No. 10 on the back of the superb T shirt. This was given general calls of bollocks, kelong, hashit, piss off . . . and general assent.

Mystery Whip STIFF invites the three yankee hares back to the buckets. Says 'Pommie' is the shit term for the English, what about the Scots, Welsh and Irish . . . together making Britons, and proceeded to pour each a cup of cold tea as this is what you do with tea, not polluting the Boston bay waters, you environmental vandals!

Whip called for Suku . . . and we ran for the food.

MIKE CROFT MEMORIAL RUN

Run No. : # 840 16.1.96
Runsite : Jln Berseri (off Chua Chu Kang Road)
Hares : SAYETING & LUNATIC

"Up with this I cannot put!"

Seletar hashers are well acquainted with this Malay idiom, often uttered by our recently departed wit. But even CROTCH himself would have approved of this "memorial run". The hares were two of Seletar's finest, viz. SAYETING (a possible Seletar hat-trick GM) and LUNATIC (Seletar's Whip); the latter also an untimely and reluctant "successor" for Uncle Mike at the Horrors.

CROTCH's widow informed me that Jln Berseri is a favourite running ground for the Horrors, and so it was appropriate, being also adjacent to the Christian cemetery nearby, where CROTCH is now interred.

The large turn-up included many of our "long-time-no-see" LOAs, such as WINNIE and SHOELACE and FER. The run-site was well chosen, far from the public eye, with adequate car-parking and space for the auction that followed (again, CROTCH would have approved of the location). And the weather was just fine.

Round and around the drainage canals and I caught up with FEARLESS F. FRED, who declared in his best German-Swiss: "Doctor, I'm drained!" Funny, that expression was also made by NEUTRON ROD at the Circle. Drained of what, NEUTRON didn't specify.

Eighty percent running alongside the drains, into and out of the drains, and across the drains, with some stretches of waste ground in Jln Bahar that even FATIMAH (our perennial consultant), whose territory this is, has not seen before.

Some T-checks and clever back checks and we arrived at a helicopter landing pad, clearly demarcated by a large ring of white flour, placed besides CROTCH's grave.

And on the grave, fresh flowers.

The hares had set up a beer stop here. "This one is for you, CROTCH", and we were on our way. Having seen, we had work to do, and we were on our way.

More drains, as we broke last check, and we were home, in good time.

At the Circle that followed, the worried looks on the faces of the hares signified that Mr. Ho (the caterer) had still not arrived. Some frantic calls on the portable phone, and it was revealed that Mr. Ho had mistaken LUNATIC's orders for Sunday. "No problem" declared SAYETING, as he despatched ICHIBAWA to depart in three cars to search for food at the nearest food centres. They returned with packets and packets of all sorts which were distributed out, when the auction was already in full swing. Just as well that the auction was not interrupted by a line-up for food. Thus, SUKU was spared.

MAD DOG did a fine job as auctioneer. Generous bids were knocked down, and many of the items were re-donated and re-auctioned. The highest single bid, I think, came from VIRGINIA SLIM, at $750 for some trivia - I can't recall what, but who cares? It's the bidding, not the items; the singer, not the song, that carried the auction through. By about 11 pm, there were only a handful of bidders around, as most had left, and the remaining items were held up for another occasion.

Down-down to MAD DOG, who performed so well. Apart from the $25 run entry fee collected from all, the auction collection came to $8,660, which some clown topped up to 9 K.

All told, the night's collection came to nearly 12 K. Well done, hares! Not that CROTCH's family is in any distress, but then, this is Seletar and our way of honouring CROTCH.

Who said: "Up with this I cannot put!"

CHINESE NEW YEAR RUN '96

Circle Report

Run : # 846, a.k.a. Chinese New Year Run '96
Date : 27th February, 1996
Hares : OPTO, OPERA & WRONG SIZE
Scribe : PREACHER (defaulted)
Run-site : Dental Clinic, Singapore General Hospital

After socialising and eating nuts, pork floss, and other goodies - compliments of the hares - HARSHMAN calls all Hashers to the Circle, which was formed at the entrance to the deserted Dental Clinic. The run-sites for the next two runs are announced and FUKAWE reiterates that there will be no chilli served at his birthday run. Bring your own chilli.

GM, BOO announces that the NCO club has a strict dresscode. When you show up for the AGM, please wear a shirt with sleeves and collar, trousers and shoes. Hashers not properly attired will not be admitted.

This week's guests are introduced. Chris is brought in by MUFFDIVER, Joe Tay by OPD, HOORAY from the Friday Hash, and a gentleman whose name has escaped me from the China Hash. MUFFDIVER is iced for bringing a guest but forgets to tell the Hash Cash about it. Lauda has brought his father to the hash; both are iced and given a down-down, which Lauda wins convincingly. Seletar ex-member, CATFISH who reportedly is running with the Jakarta Hash is introduced to the Circle and iced. Celebrities: Hans Solo has been running for a long time and clocked 600 runs. OPTO is celebrating his 450th run and SLEEPING DICK has achieved 50 runs. Down-Down for the celebrities. The hares are iced and given the pisspot. TODDY MAMA declared it a good urban run with so many breaks, but the GM decided that it was worth a pisspot anyway.

Since this is BOO's last circle for the year, he leaves with the earth shaking statement: "Fuck the Whip!!"

The Whip (Bob LUNATIC White) says: BOO showed up in the Circle without a Seletar T-shirt. That is almost as bad as not wearing a T-shirt like the visiting CATFISH. These gentlemen have to be reminded that Seletar has a strict dress code during the run and the circle.

New Boot, someone has forgotten to mention his name. Could it be that the GM's memory has deteriorated during his term of office? Get on the ice again, BOO.

While running across the road, the whip was made aware of a Hashman sitting in a taxi acting like he lost something on the floor. Adam, defending himself, accused the driver of the cab - none other than OPERA himself - offered him a ride. That may have been OK if the time was 7.30, but this was at 6.15. The whip suggests "TAXI BOY" as the new Hash name.

The GM, BOO has forgotten to mention some other milestones in the life of fellow Hashers LAUDA and MUFFDIVER. LAUDA celebrates a birthday, and MUFFDIVER has become a daddy very recently.

A young lady called the whip today about the cards. SLIME who is out of the country left the cards at OPTO's house. OPTO never looks at them, but his daughter, Ruby does. She saves the day by calling the whip and giving him the milestones. Like dad's 450 runs and TWO WHEELS's 288 runs, a very auspicious number. PAPA SMURF is taking the down-down in place of TWO WHEELS.

BOO congratulates the whip for a job well done, and after the down-down, the remaining ice water is poured over the whip in a rare show of affection. Then the Circle moved to a restaurant at Sago Street for an excellent Chinese dinner with lots of beer and brandy.

HASHING IN TAIPEI, TAIWAN

James SQUEALING PIG Kerr

There are two Hash Chapters in Taipei, namely the Taipei H3, strictly male only and the China H3, mixed. Both are held at weekends, the Taipei on Saturdays and the China on Sundays. Both Hashes take advantage of the beautiful mountainous ranges that completely surround the city of Taipei, therefore, up to two hours are needed to get to the run site. This is one of the reasons why the runs are held at the weekends. Another reason is that during the winter months it is dark by 5.30 p.m.

Both Hashes operate a vehicle pool system which meets at the American Legion initially, followed by a re-group point, usually on the outskirts of the city. From the re-group point, the transportation follows flour laid on the roads to the run site.

All runs are marked by flour and chalk only. This is strictly enforced. The runs are all live Hare events and are extremely demanding. The Taipei Hash runs average 2 hours first runner in, and last week's one was 2 hours and 45 minutes. The China Hash 1 hour 30 minutes first runner in, all over mountainous terrain. Ropes often have to be used, especially on the Taipei Hash, not only for going up but down as well.

On the Taipei Hash the Hares are given 14 minutes head start then the pack walk for the first two minutes followed by a mad charge of around 80 runners. Similar on the China Hash, but the ladies set off at 7 minutes. The event is extremely un-nerving for the Hares as being in the mountains they can invariably be observed descending or ascending in the distance by the impatient pack. Also, sound travels extremely clear over such terrain, thus giving the impression that the front runners are closer than actual. The Taipei Hash runs average 15 kilometers. Being in such remote areas, shortcutting is definitely not an option. There is at least one injury every week, predominantly smashed noses, from sliding/falling down inclines, being stopped by a tree or rock.

The usual beer-truck is in attendance at the end of the run. Down-downs are not accompanied by the Hash song, which I found strange at first. However, on the Taipei Hash the down-downs are accompanied by loud, piercing whistles which some of the runners carry for use on the run if lost, in distress or falling behind.

The On-On is called The Bash, which is wild, putting it mildly. The beer flows furiously and the food is plentiful and excellent. Average cost, including vast quantities of beer is NT$400, about S$20. Equivalent cost in Singapore I would estimate to be at least S$45. Big bottles of beer arrive at the tables in crates. No need for bottle openers, the Taipei Hash guys use their teeth!

The highlight feature of the The Bash is the inevitable table dive at the end. This involves some poor individual either voluntarily, (wisely), diving or, if not, being flung face down from being swung by four others by his spread-out arms and legs to skim along a table stacked full of empty plates, glasses and beer bottles. You can imagine the effect, like 10 pin bowling!

Last time I saw Scott Summers, (SCOTTY), ex-Seletar, was last week crashing along a table head-first towards an open window, the sill of which was just below table-top height. Scotty wishes to be remembered to all at Seletar who ran between 1985-88. He is still as suave and handsome as ever. He speaks fluent Mandarin.

Sometimes the runs are in the volcanic region, which is great. The restaurants there, for Bashing, have hot springs; tapping natural boiling water, with the beer also flowing freely, is a great relief to the tormented muscles after the gruelling runs. Last week's run took us straight through the middle of the crater of a seemingly dormant volcano with yellow sulphur spurting in the air. The fumes were choking.

There is no formal membership as such, as the Chapters here are not required to be registered with any particular Authority. Therefore, there are no quarterly fees or application formwork processing. Payment for each run is made on the spot. The Taipei Hash charges NT$150, approximately S$8. Before you all harass the Committee about the higher cost of hashing in Singapore, I must point out that beer is cheaper here in Taiwan, about half.

To keep in shape for the weekend runs, a hardcore meet every Thursday evening to run a set route on the verge of the city. This is up through the Palace Museum grounds to the hills beyond. This takes us around 45 minutes then back to the Legion. No two weekend runs are the same. The routes vary immensely taking in rice padi fields, tea bush terraces, tangerine groves, bamboo thickets, buffalo trails, white water streams, up and down waterfalls, etc. The temperatures also vary immensely although it is warmer and more constant now. My first run during early January entailed a run site temperature of 4 degrees during the down-downs. No need to chill the beer.

The most striking feature of the Hash in Taiwan is the sheer, utmost friendliness and openness of the organisation. This especially so of the Taipei Hash, (95% locals, 5% expatriates). Any visitor or new-comer is looked after with absolutely no effort spared. In fact the level of attention given is often embarrassing. The people are absolutely genuine.

I stayed at the Fortune Dragon Hotel when I first arrived in Taipei. One morning while entering the restaurant, being the only Kwailoh amongst about 200 people, I heard my name shouted across the room. It was SNAKE HIPS. He was on a tour of the Island. I had not seen him for at least six years. By coincidence I had taken with me his headband handout from his run with KING KONG, No. 437 on August 23rd, 1988. We could not follow up as his tour group was leaving for another location immediately after breakfast. He has not changed. MUFFDIVER is very well remembered on the Taipei Hash.

To summarise, I would liken the hash philosophy here to the Oxford/Cambridge Boat Race motto - "That which does not kill us makes us stronger".

On On from that wild boar,

SQUEALING PIG

TRIANGULAR RUN

10 June 1995

Hosted by Sungei Ujong H3 in Seramban

Twelve good men and true went up by bus (OPERA, GUZZLER, JIMMY, VIRGINIA SLIM, HARSHMAN, POOFTER WOOFER, MONKEY BALLS; KICHIBHAI, HO CHI MINH, GENERAL, ADAM, and COCKSUCKER . . . . a dozen of Singapore's finest candidates for euthanasia) and four by individual car (FIRST BLOOD, ICHIBAWASAN, TODDY MAMA & family, and last but not least CHAMP).

Reception committee was at runsite, in unspoilt gorgeous running country. Soon we were crawling up 7000 ft vertical hills without crampons or ropes, that make Bukit Timah NR hill seem an insignificant warm up. Weather hot and dry. We were soon hot and wet. Usual story after this of hills & streams - with buffalo slugs - clever backchecks . . . some dangerous parts, a few injuries occurred . . . paper on one large circle with plenty of separate detours to keep interest and slow down the FRBs. Some hashers worked out the concept, and promptly ducked out from running the detours, just plodded along until the paper reappeared. This was met with much ice threats. One from Singapore was with these SCB's . . .

At approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes, most of the pack were home, to a disorganised and surprisingly disrespectful crowd. Much call to order. Too many outstation hashers, so no real head prefect. Then the GM of SU welcomed PJ Animals and Seletar GM/runners. Our two JMs did the D/D for our absent GM. CHAMP was asked to state his club: Animals or Seletar. After simple packet supper, we repaired to the Fortune Pub, a few only going to the Miners. The ON ON was extensive, well supported and limitless amounts of booze was consumed. Great hash heroes such as CAVEMAN, OIL SLICK, Peter, BOTAK, PUTONG, and BUFFALOW kept us amused and plenty others kept us propped up at the bar until very very late.

Breakfast was Bakuteh, followed by more beer at the Padang, and much icing and singing. Some hashers tried to imitate water buffalows - sitting in the eskey - others sat for long periods on the ice whilst the bongo drum was warmed up, and the guitarist re-tuned the strings in slow motion. VIRGINIA SLIM was in excellent form delivering a faultless ten verses of 'yard and a half of foreskin below his knees' which was heartily appreciated. The new bedpan was given a huge outing, and many regretted the fact that 'refilling' occurs whilst you drink. CHAMP again asked to decide which club he represents. VIRGINIA SLIM thanked the GM of Sungei Ujong for their hospitality, and soon we were back in the bus thrashing our way back home . . . until we were stopped by police . . . new recruit ADAM was in good form, so we suggest his name . . . 'Mother-In-Law' which the Whip might like to make official one day soon.

Trip ended at JB with a terrific dinner - a good weekend hash - and after much pleading, the bastard who had stolen C/S's passport returned it at the checkpoint.

A NIGHT IN THE MALAYSIAN JUNGLE

Ong TIGHT ARSE Chye Ong

My unforgettable run with the PJ Hash House Harriettes took place at Bukit Raja Industrial Estate, near Klang, one merry night in May 1996.

Since it was only going to take less than an hour to get to the run site if I were to use the Klang Valley Expressway (as informed by a veteran KLite), I left the hotel at 5.00pm giving what I thought to myself ample time to reach the run site and get to know the hashers before the run starts.

Little did I know that the infamous Bangkok jams have drifted south to K.L., and there I was . . . still stuck in traffic at 5.30pm. Hit the toll at 5.45pm and from there it was a breeze all the way to the run site. Arrived there at 6.10 and was rushing off to catch up with the pack when a Harriette waylaid me and firmly demanded guest fees from me before I was allowed to run after the pack! I had to go back to the car and get the money . . . and shucks . . . no change. Took out a RM50 bill, gave it to Jothi and hurriedly shoved the change into my running shorts. This action was later to save my life.

Sprinted off and caught up with the back runners in 15 minutes. Overtook them and happily continued running on paper. At around 6.45 I realised that there was no one in front of me . . . and also no one behind me! Only then did I realise that I had been following the wrong paper! We had started out on triangular paper . . . and the paper is now square! BIG MISTAKE. I knew then that I had lost the pack. 7.15. But hark! The sound of motor vehicles . . . the highway or road must be nearby. So I left the square paper and headed off in the direction of the sounds . . . I force myself through the bushes . . . suddenly I fell into a swamp . . . up to my neck. After a bit of struggle, I managed to get out. By then it was 8 pm. I was so wet and dirty, so I just headed for a path in the oil palm. I made a quick evaluation of the situation. Triangular paper was eons ago, and I had no idea where I'd seen the last piece of square paper. So I resigned myself to the fact that I would have to spend my virgin night in the Malaysian jungle . . . in oil palm.

To make matters worse . . . it started to rain. I was so cold . . . so hungry . . . mozzies attacked me by the thousands and I couldn't do a thing. There were some fireflies to brighten up my night as well . . . and I was so very worried about my loved ones . . . about the hash waiting for me to come out. Once or twice, I thought I heard the sound of vehicles in the oil palm . . . but the vehicle was too far away. I had no choice but to wait out the night.

Woke up at 6.45 am and started to walk for a while . . . then run for 2 hours . . . running in circles, I suspect. I was very tired and dehydrated and started to worry . . . 'til I heard some sounds like Indian music . . . so I headed for the music . . . Boy! Was I glad to see 2 Malay guys. They very kindly gave me a ride in their truck to the main road of Pekan Meru. From there, I hopped on a bus towards Klang. Thanks, Jothi, for making sure I had money with me. Had a cup of coffee in a coffee shop, then rang up a hash friend who was good enough to come give me a ride home.

I later found out that the hare and a few committee members had waited at the run site 'til 1.30 am. Two FWDs had gone in twice to look for me both on the Thursday triangular paper and also the Monday square paper, but to no avail since I was not on paper. I am indeed very grateful to the Thursday hash for arranging to send my car back to my hotel. This must surely be hash comraderie at its best! Thank you again PJ Harriettes/Harriers.

The moral of the story must surely be - when you are lost, ALWAYS STAY ON PAPER . . . I learn.

P. J. ANIMALES' 1000TH RUN

The Petaling Jaya Hash House Animales' 1000th run, also dubbed the XXXth Batangwealth Games, was held in Kajang, Seremban, over the weekend of May 18-19, 1996.

Not unexpectedly, the Animales were quick to accost (Concise Oxford Dictionary defines accost as "soliciting with a prostitute") Seletar's GM SAYETING, not once, not twice, but directly or indirectly through other Seletar hashers, always within our GM's ear-shot, thus:

"Why the road relay from Singapore for another chapter?"

It was JIMMY Mohan (Seletar past GM) who gave the perfect (diplomatic) reply: "But we are here! A road relay was organised and we also ran."

Yes, that road relay is the subject of another Seletar epic story. But we were also there for the Animales' 1000th run, albeit within one week of Petaling HHH's coincidental 1000th.

The "mamas" and "papas" were there - the Seletar Chinamen, the Seletar "Countrymen" (i.e. Bhais), the Seletar Dream (drink) Team who were to emerge as champions at the boat race later - were all there. Even CHAMP, whose heart belongs to Seletar daddy, but whose belly (beer belly that is) is Animales contaminated.

That seemed to have satisfied the PJ Animales, bearing always in mind that PJ and Sungei Ujong (whence many a Seletar hasher came from) and Seletar are an unholy trinity of sorts. We have had many a triangular run together, in each other's territory in the past, and we still continue to do so.

But the Animales, being a "batang" (men only) hash, maintained their "batang only" invitations, even for their 1000th. This has its draw-backs of course, such as resulting in a limited participation, but was more than made up, in the absence of ladies, by a greater freedom of exposure, in language as well as in performance, as evidenced at their cultural show climax.

The run was held at the Kajang Gun Club, nestled in a valley at the foothills of the main mountain range, following a 10K dirt track out of town, with clearly marked hash road signs. The two runs (long and short) started at the same time at 5.30pm, on a hot afternoon, soon after the host GM TODA made his "Good Come" welcome.

The short run went immediately up a mud track to the edge of a disused rubber plantation, now overgrown with tall ferns. Out of the rubber, around a slope, and up 2 hills, and we were atop the main hill, which allowed a panoramic view of the valley below.

You could see that the rapid on-going construction work in the valley spelt destruction to the hill-side around. A long barren slope (not unlike the big splash that you see in water parks, but created out of soil erosion and rain), was the way down. Going down was slower and more difficult than climbing up.

Halfway along the short run, our red paper trail joined up with the white paper of the long run, which was a-coming from around the mountain. The front-running long runners were still not in sight when I reached "home" after an hour and a half.

Piped water from the nearby gun club into two large wading pools provided by our hosts allowed for a quick shampoo and wash-down, and we were ready for the evening's entertainment.

Hors-d'oeuvre were 2 pigs and 2 sheep roasted in the pits. Carlsberg all night, curried chicken, curried mutton, yellow piloo rice and roti, and a porridge broth for supper were served. There was also fresh "see-hum" (cockles) which I had to say no to, in view of the prevalent cholera outbreak.

Animalism was very much on show on stage at the cultural performance that followed the routine entertainment. You have to be a freak to get a hard-on to perform on stage before a rowdy crowd of some 250-300 batangs. The animales trooped in one by one, but no one could get into the act with the actress (I'll swear it's a she) who left disappointed.

Back at the Metro Hotel where we stayed, the beer drinking continued on in the lobby. It was so rowdy and noisy that the police came. After that, some quiet and we could catch some sleep, inspite of snoring bed-fellows.

Kajang Stadium, where the footbrawl was to have started at 10 am, was padlocked when we arrived at 10.30 am. Neither the food, nor the barrels of beer, which had arrived, could be delivered in. But, locked-in, were four outstation hashers. They must have entered during the night. The key was with the stadium's security guard. Will the guard remember, and will he come to open the gate on this Sunday morning? We did not stay long enough to find out.

Thus, the moving finger writes, only to record our camaraderie with our Animales hosts.

'OBESSA CANTAVIT' (The fat lady has sung.)

TANJUNG PETRI'S 888TH CELEBRATION RUN

Mount Austin, J. B. 17.8.96

The 1996 OR-LAN-PIGS, a.k.a. Tanjung Petri H3 888th Celebration Run, was held at Mount Austin Estate in Johore Bahru on 17th instant.

Tee Pee boasts itself as a "Batang" hash, and the invitations were extended to "Pricks" only, but they came from as far away as Alor Star and Ipoh. They were clearly and audibly chavinists.

To support the event (and to promote our own forthcoming 888) Seletar Hash took out an advertisement page in their souvenir magazine. The run was FOC, but as only 14 Seletar hashers attended, it would have cost us less (by at least 50 percent) if we were levied a registration fee instead. Still, what are friends from below the Causeway for? South of the border, Seletar H3 is the only chapter that consistently support our up-country hashers.

On an overcast afternoon that soon started to rain, the host GM KOCKY called the visitors for a photo-shoot. "On-On" was called at 5.30pm, and we reluctantly emerged from the shelter of the tents.

There was only one run. We were told to follow paper as, on a previous occasion, visiting hashers who did not know the terrain and tried a short-cut, had ended up at Senai airport. That's quite a distance away, even as the crow flies.

The run went through the oil palm estate on Mount Austin. Austin would not be called Mount if geographical description allowed so. Four hills on square paper, and shredded paper when bashing through the tall ferns, summarises the run. The wet slippery slopes, scratches here and there, and thorny bushes that we hardly now encounter in Singapore was the punishment we had came for.

What I liked was that one hare always stayed behind as sweeper, and that was comforting for me. The stragglers - "me too" included - were diverted up a fifth hill, for which I was eternally grateful, when I saw the front runners coming from around a long loop. Not that much longer really, but still, with all that wet mud and thorny bushes that I could not hold on to, it was considerate of the hares. Although there was only one run, the hares did provide for a built-in short-cut.

The last hill was spectacular. Although I've run this Mount Austin estate before, I have not been on Monkey Hill. This is the highest point in Ulu Tiram. They even took the trouble to shave the hill top bare so that we could admire the panoramic view around.

The programme said:

"Devouring of the swill".... (We partook.)

"Hash Heraldly".....(ie. all GMs upstage)

"Quaffing of the ale".....(viz.boat race) and

"Miss Universe Pageant".....

You know what to expect under this last item. Being an all-male evening, the organisers had to live up to their reputation. Three or four well-shaped "dancers" frolicked on stage. Could be "fee-males", but who cares?

The last performer was a well-shaped female contortionist in panty-hose, who presented her act, through an adequate opening, in a variety of poses, the likes of which will never be seen even in the best 5-star night spots in town. First, one cigarette, then four sticks together, were puffed out. The climax was written in C language, to thank the host GM "KOCKY" and organising chairman "BOTAK". We were then given two 4-Digit numbers for PRESS ONCE to place bets.

"Doc, scribe this." my GM ordered. That's SAYETING's command style. Thus I submit, until Seletar can afford a paid foreign correspondent.

ZEN AND THE ART OF DRINKING COFFEE

Sean NEEDLE DICK Ricks reports on a unique local culture

Here we come again to SNAKE EATER. This one I got, heh heh. STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE, OPTO, and MADONNA made their way to the ice. My good friend SNAKE EATER was icing these three for an event that happened after the Tanjong Petri 888 run. The true guilty party was STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE. It seems that after the run, these guys decided to go to church. Since church did not start for a few hours, STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE suggested that they stop off at this well known coffee shop for a drink of coffee while they waited for church to start. STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE orders coffee for himself and SNAKE EATER, but OPTO and MADONNA refused to drink. They say you can lead a Hashman to coffee but you cannot make him drink. So it is true. SNAKE EATER finished his coffee and was quite happy with how hot it was. STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE, also finished his (but long before SNAKE EATER). Here is the icing part. It seems that when STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE ordered the coffees, he got a normal one for SNAKE EATER and got the best kind for himself (no doubt some Malaysian Mountain Blend). Upon hearing this, SNAKE EATER said "Got any left or not?" STEVEN LEE ROAD alias HOSIM alias STEVEN LEE said "Have, but you better buy fast, they are going to run out soon." So SNAKE EATER went and bought another coffee. It took so long for him to drink the second one that the other three guys were waiting by the car ready to go to church by the time he was finished. They proceeded on to church and all was well.

Amen.

WEEKEND AT ENDAU-ROMPIN WATERFALLS

8-11, August, 1996

Endau-Rompin Waterfalls are located in secondary forest at the southern end of Taman Negara (Malaysia's National Park) in Johore State.

OPTO'S REPORT

There are many waterfalls in the Endau-Rompin National Park. Known previously only to the orang asli (aborigine) people, the falls are now readily accessed by 4 wheel-drive via logging tracks off the newly-opened Endau-Rompin highway.

Perhaps the best known and visited is Buaya Sangkok ("crocodile stuck on river"), but it was to the smaller Takapomong and Takachapak waterfalls that we went.

I like to visit a place I've not been to before. And so, when our leader William SAYETING Cheng suggested doing something over our National Day holiday weekend, I readily signed on and paid up.

"Like a Virgin" (the song), I'm a patriot. I disappear from my country when National Day comes along. But when else can a workaholic like myself get a break?

Day 1: (8th August, 1996)

We were twenty altogether (including two "outsiders"). The Seletar gang included all the perennial G. Tahan climbers. Some, eg. SAYETING and Bob DEEPHOLE Tan, and Ong TIGHT ARSE Chye Ong, brought along their wives to share the experience. The notable newcomers were PONTIANAK Stein and HARSHMAN Harjeet.

We have been on many a trek to the Malayan jungles before, but this was the first time that we were to be taken along by a professional operator. There was some trepidation, naturally, so we "kiasu" Singaporeans brought along extra food (eg. prawn sambal) and cartons and cartons of beer and stout, and brandy and whisky (in case of snake-bite).

"Rugged Outback", the tour operator, met us with three 4 WD Land Rovers at the waterfront just after the Johore customs. All haversacks secured on the roof-top racks and covered with tarpaulin sheets, and we squeezed into the already laden vehicles. The SAF would have been proud of our logistics.

Not forgetting that eating is a necessary part of the journey, SAYETING immediately called for a breakfast break in Johore Jaya, and a lunch stop in Kehang (after Kluang, from the N.S. Highway).

And after lunch, a feast of durians, durians, now in season; and mangosteens. Kipling had written: "When you eat a mangosteen, You will soon know what I mean." We entered a logging track off the main road after Kehang, and drove 23K into the Endau-Rompin National Park. This track was well sign-posted for tourists to visit the orang asli settlement, above the Endau river. Just before the park HQ, we turned into a smaller dirt track. It was along this short steep stretch that a 4 WD was necessary. We stopped (had to) at a spot just before where the road had collapsed from soil erosion. Here is Sungei Lomakoh, where we set up "base camp", in a small clearing. Tents & toilets erected, a quick wash-down beside a shallow flowing stream, and we were ready for dinner.

The luxury of having a "tour operator" soon became obvious. All cooking was done for us, and the washing-up by the orang ali, who came along as guides.

Day 2: (9th August, 1996)

The whole day was spent visiting the two very close by waterfalls at Takapomong. Back at Sungei Lomakoh, happy hour was declared and, following ancient ritual, the bar was set up on the rocks in the flowing stream.

Pauline celebrated her birthday with cake and candle, (on a day that made LKY cry). At sharp midnight, PONTIANAK too had his birthday.

Who was missing at dinner? The happy hour drinkers, and our leader, who was carried, hors de combat, from the river bed. He gave such a good performance that we asked a repeat the following night.

Day 3: (10th August, 1996)

This was the waterfall we had come for. A 3-hour trek up a stony river bed to Takachapak. From here, up a cliff- face, and along a river bed to a third un-named fall, known only to the orang asli people, who come here during the hot season to catch frogs.

Our tour operator had warned us of the many taboos associated with the jungle in this remote region. What was un-expected was the encounter with the slippery stones in the river bed, over which we had to find foot-holds. Many a twist and slip, and my brand new Nike Air, bought for this trip, split its soles.

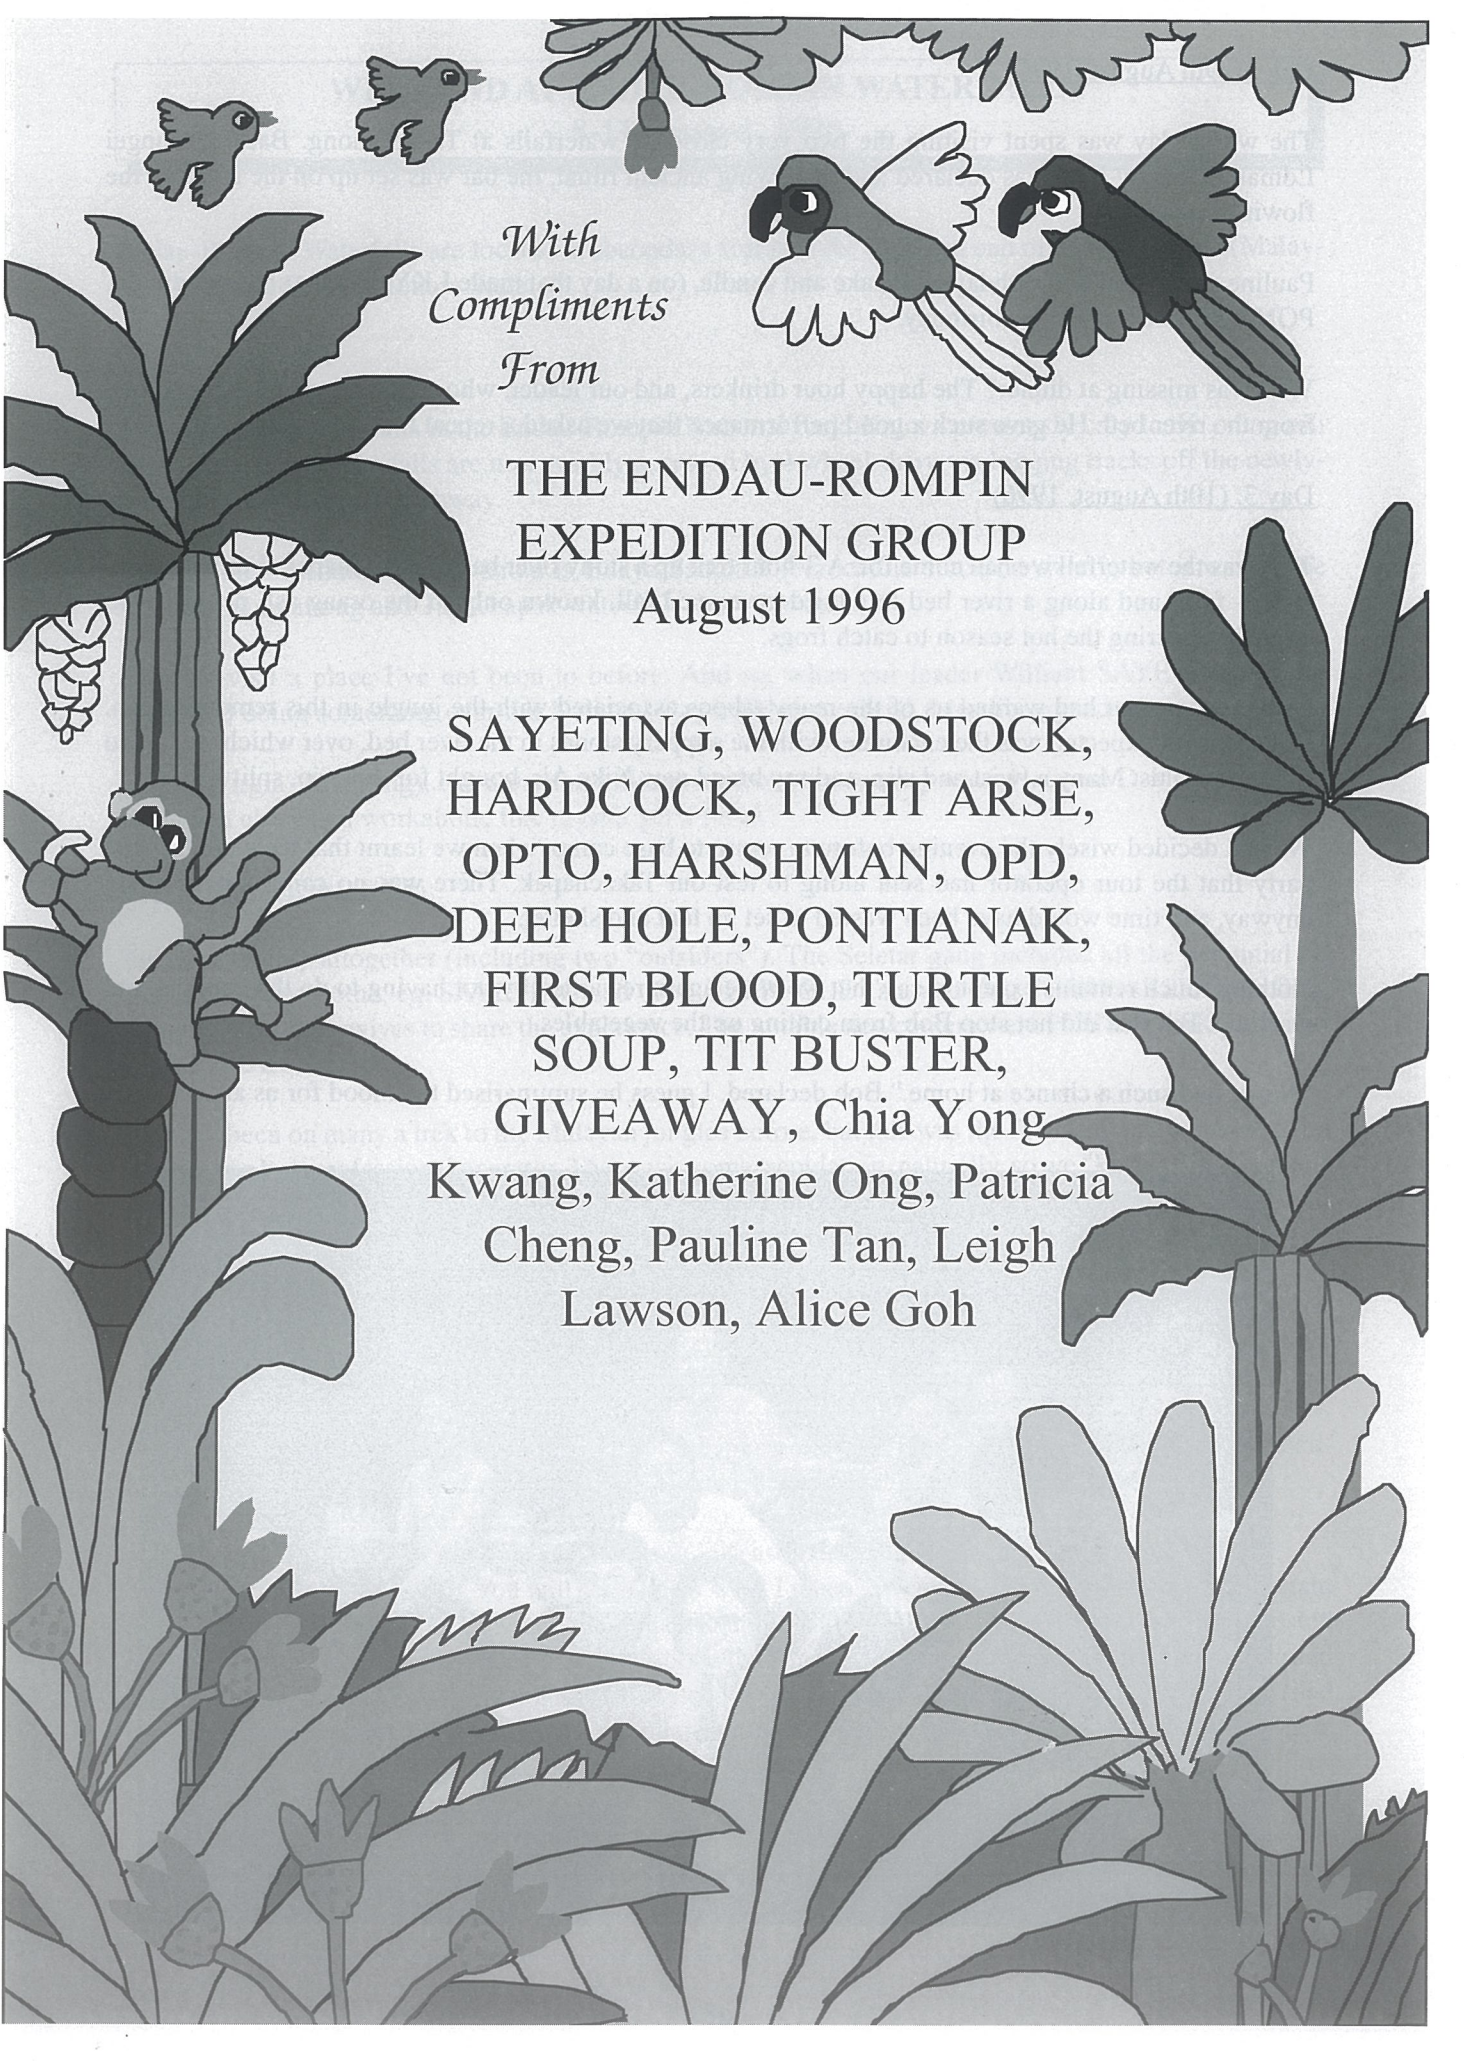

We had decided wisely the evening before to return to base camp, when we learnt that we were the first party that the tour operator had sent along to test out Takachapak. There was no camp site up there anyway, and time would have been wasted to set up tent and shelter.

Nothing much remains except to say that we were again rewarded by not having to do the cooking and wash-up. But that did not stop Bob from cutting up the vegetables.

“Never had such a chance at home.” Bob declared. I guess he summarised the mood for us all.

Over 750 buildings in Singapore are already saving water with Daikin's revolutionary 'no-water' VRV™ central aircon system.

As responsible citizens, we have to take water conservation seriously. And as smart businessmen, we can also conserve some hard-earned funds at the same time. Have a close look at that most indispensable part of Singapore — the aircon system.

Did you know that most older office buildings in Singapore are air conditioned by chilled-water systems and cooling towers that consume huge quantities of water?

And that these chilled-water systems actually lose up to 2% of the water being circulated because of evaporation, spillage and 'drift' (water released into the air during the cooling process)?

In a typical 25-storey office building like the John Hancock Tower, that 2% would amount to an astonishing 68,054,688 litres of water lost every year! The cost: exactly $108,928.33 at today's rate JHT's owner and architect, however, had the foresight to install a Daikin VRV Aircon System.

Daikin VRV uses no water at all — instead it cools with a Daikin refrigerant which is ten times more efficient than water as a means of cooling. Which is why over 750 buildings in Singapore are already using the Daikin VRV System. What's more, it doesn't require expensive maintenance or chemical treatments to prevent diseases (such as the lethal Legionnaire's Disease) that spread in water vapour.

Its innovative design eliminates water chillers, cooling towers, water pumps & pipes and large air ducts. Daikin VRV system dramatically simplifies installation and maintenance — saving time, space and money.

Inverter controlled compressors and individual computer control allow each room to be independently air conditioned. Each occupant turns on his own air conditioner and sets his desired temperature as and when he wants it. A completely flexible system which saves tremendous energy.

In fact, Daikin's advanced VRV technology is so revolutionary it's finding fast acceptance around the world among commercial projects and larger residential units. If you would like to know more, call us or return the coupon below.
