

If I Were A Bachelor

In the morning, in the morning, in the morning by the sea,
In the morning, in the morning, in the morning by the sea

If I were a bachelor and if I were to marry
I would marry a carpenter's daughter,
More than anybody
For she can screw and I can screw, we can screw together.
Waking up in the middle of the night, screwing one another.

If I were a bachelor, if I were to marry,
I would marry an icecream man's daughter
More than anybody.
She can lick and I can lick, we can lick together,
Waking up in the middle of the night, licking one another.

In the morning, in the morning, in the morning by the sea,
In the morning, in the morning, in the morning by the sea.

If I were a bachelor, if I were to marry,
I would marry a Bayee's daughter
More than anybody.
She can ram and I can ram, we can ram together
Waking up in the middle of the night, ramming one another.

If I were a bachelor, if I were to marry,
I would marry the fucking Whip's daughter,
More than anybody
She can whip and I can whip, we can whip together
Waking up in the middle of the night, whipping one another.
